

The GOLDEN YEARS

WESTERN HILLS ANNUAL 1958

To improve the golden moments
of opportunity, catch the good
that is within our reach, is the great
art of life.

— SAMUEL JOHNSON

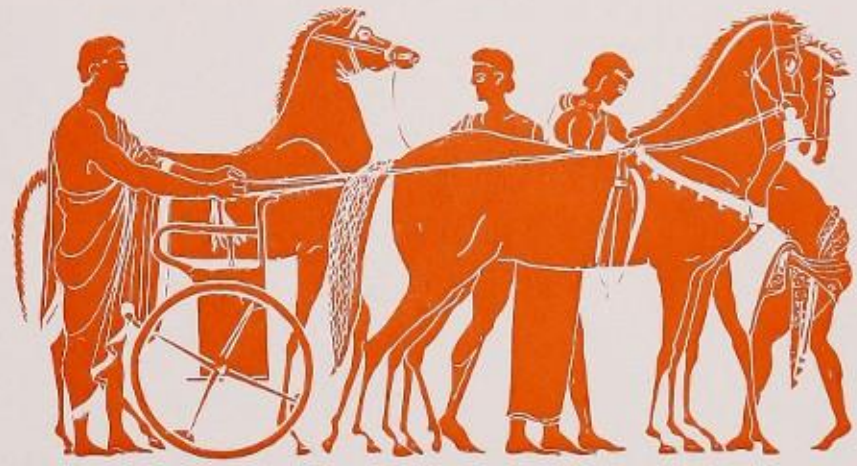

The Golden Years

And so it came to pass that in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight on one of the lofty hills of our fair city a mighty school opened its doors, and the youth of the community trooped in. Now the city fathers said, "Yea it is a beautiful structure. Let its name be called Western Hills High School, and let it stand as a Symbol of light and truth to all generations." And so it was.
And now nine and twenty golden years have passed, and the Thirtieth GOLDEN YEAR hath begun . . .

The Golden Years are the glorious expressions of spirit and mind and environment. They embody winning and losing; seeking and finding; living and growing. YOUTH is the password, the magical key that opens the wondrous doors of Learning and Activity. Here at Western Hills are seen the visions and colors, the spectacles and dramas of youth . . . where people live and act and sometimes dream
The Golden Years.

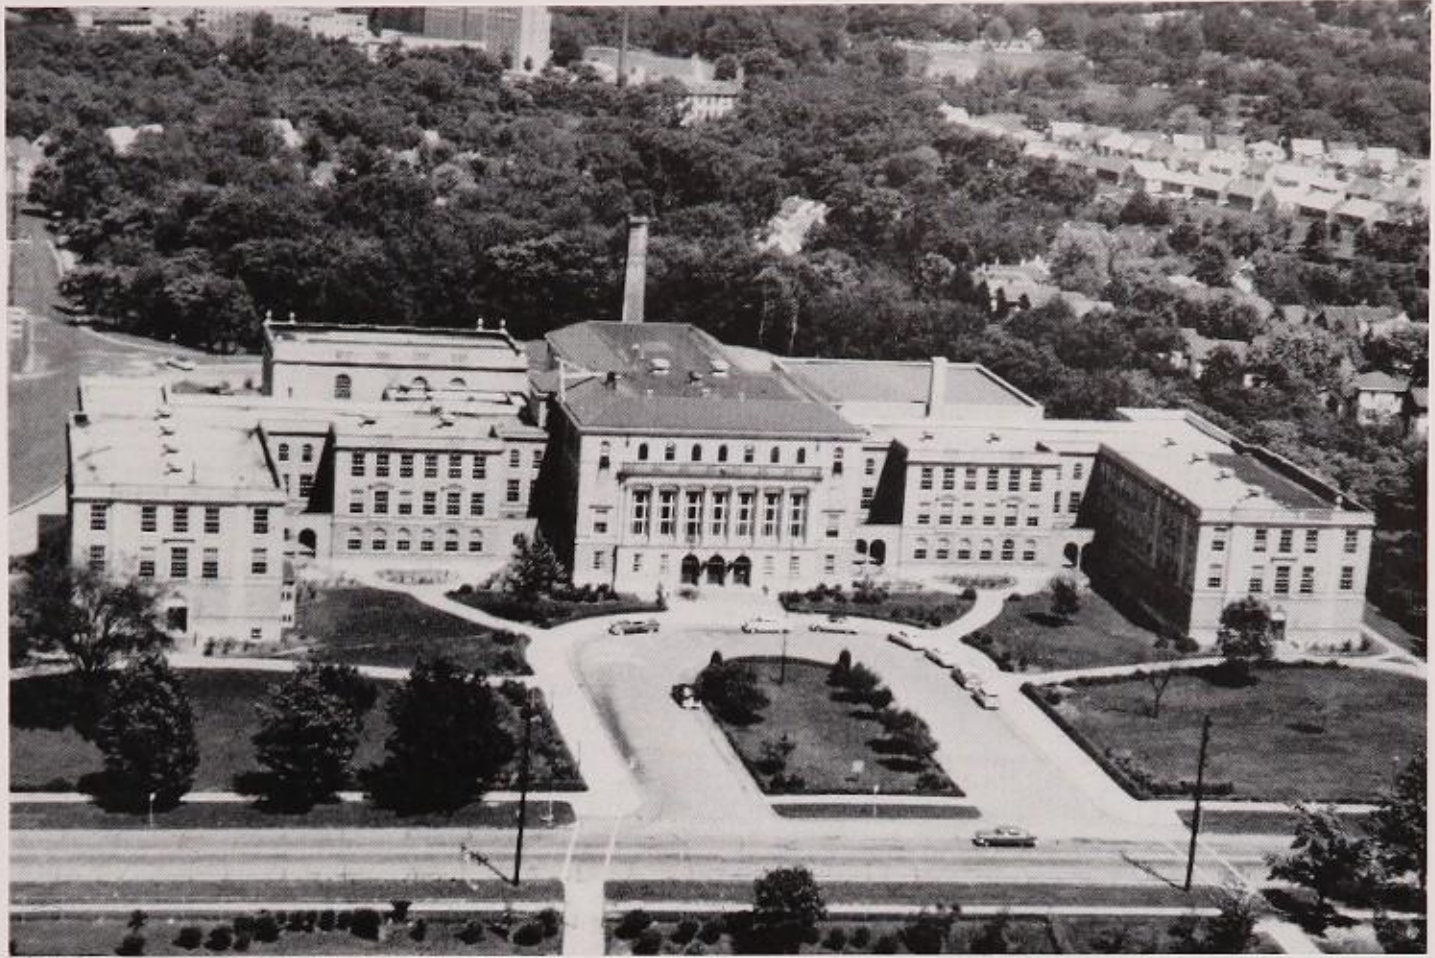

In all the ancient world there was no greater civilization, than that known in the "Golden Age of Greece." During this period in Athens a great number of the fine arts — drama, oratory, sculpture, philosophy originated and flowered with such brilliance that their conceptions have remained the same for twenty-three hundred years. The most awesome and perfect temple the world has ever known, the Parthenon, signified this past age of wonders.

Western Hills High School, atop the seven hills of one of America's proudest cities, typifies the present age of the threshold of a still greater Golden Age.

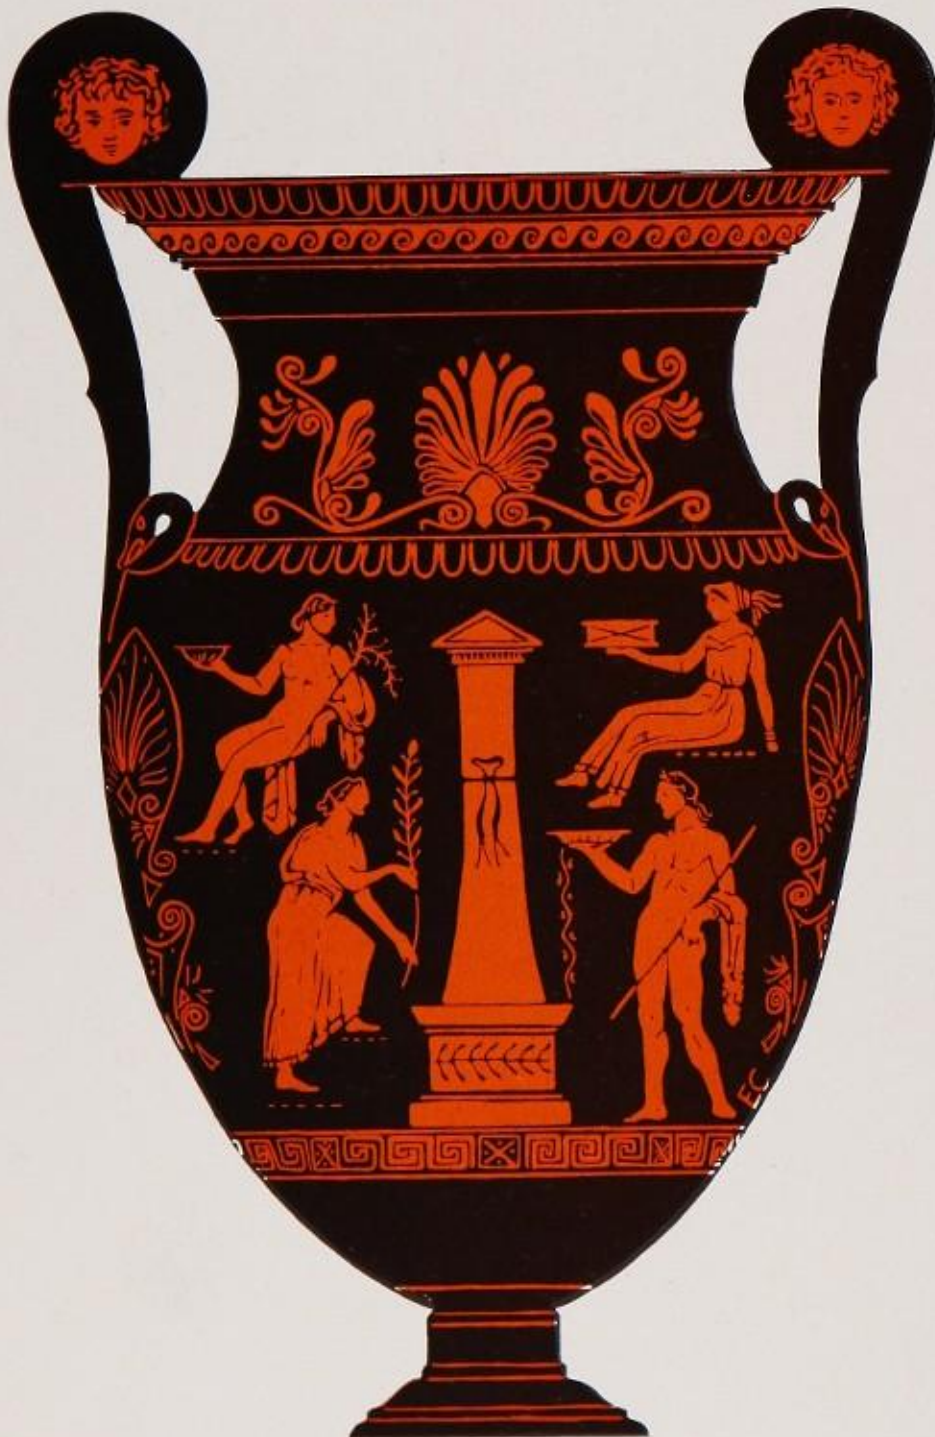

The Ancient Greeks commemorated the deeds of their youth on ornate urns and vases. The famous footraces on the grassy stadia . . . the lectures of Aristotle and Plato . . . the sailing of the young men to the distant wars . . . all were recorded in stories told by sculptors and artists on lovely vases. Now these twenty four centuries later, the youth of 1958 still record their lives and triumphs, no longer on vases and urns, but in treasured high school yearbooks. The bitterly fought Elder game . . . the famous, if noxious, chemistry experiments . . . the dreamy dancing at the Senior Prom . . . every golden moment has been preserved with equal warmth and beauty in the Western Hills Annual of 1958.

The Art of Learning

For thirty Golden Years the proud gray structure we fondly call West Hi has radiated the light and truth of modern education. From the stolid works of Cicero, to the whimsical writings of Ogden Nash . . .

from the logic and symmetry of mathematics to the marvelous phenomena of physics . . . in all phases of scholastic life, teachers encourage the ingenuity of the future citizens of our ever expanding community.

"Oooh no! Did I say that?" A returned English exam invokes this student's typical reaction.

Traditions Start With Studies

One of the proudest of West High traditions is a sense of academic achievement. In 1948 Western Hills became the first comprehensive high school to be admitted to the Cum Laude Society, an organization, on the high school level, comparable to Phi Beta Kappa. Today membership in Cum Laude is one of the cherished goals of all the academic minded students at Western Hills.

The Charm of Good Music Appeals to all Ages

Another tradition of importance at West Hi is excellence in all fields of music. The band, orchestra, and choral groups are known throughout the state. The variety show "Bandwagon", and the Christmas ballet rate as two of the highlights of the school year. Our graduates — singers, dancers and musicians — have achieved national fame.

Exceptional talent and depth are displayed by the string section of Western Hills' traditionally fine orchestra in their annual concert.

Crashing cymbals herald the arrival of West Hi's marching band.

Our well known choral group represents another West Hi tradition.

The time — a brisk autumn evening at halftime of the Woodward game;
the event — the crowning of West Hi's "Football Queen for 1958".

Medals, letters, trophies, ribbons — all these honors came to West Hi's champion swimmers.

Fall is the time for hockey. West Hi's new field is the place. From September to June every girl enjoys the excitement of the rich and varied program of girls' sports in G.A.A.

Sports are in the Spotlight

From a wild roar of the crowd at the Elder game, to the breathless waiting for the 1958 Football Queen . . . from the tense faceoff at the start of a hockey game to the happy hurrahs at the end . . . West Hi's athletic traditions beckon the students, one and all.

Student Life

Of all the traditions at West Hi the most familiar are those connected with student life. The breakfasts and roundups of senior high and the Sweetheart Dance of junior high . . . the June graduation of seniors and the fall pledging of sophomores . . . the student council elections, the perennial pow-wow and the ever popular carnival . . . all of these, we, at West Hi, have come to call our own.

Pictures, posters, candidates — the hectic pace of S.C. election.

Hail the King and Queen of Hearts — Jr. High's Royalty.

With the receipt of their class rings these '59 juniors look forward to next year when the golden opportunities of seniors will be theirs.

Hit or miss? The girls try their skill at the carnival.

Uh oh! Try again Carol. Three more balls for a quarter.

Accomplishments

From our glistening, straining, swimming champs, to our white garbed nursing enthusiasts . . . from our three candidates for the military academies, to our talented art exhibit winners . . . from our National Merit scholars, to our math brain trusts . . . the students at West Hi have won the fame and good fortune of achievement. Their accomplishments instill in West Hi the pride of today which will become the traditions of tomorrow.

We flock like birds of a feather.

The Golden Years of Learning

In ancient Greece a word of importance was philosophia — love of wisdom.

Perhaps the greatest of all philosophers, Socrates, lived in the Golden Age of Greece. To this great philosopher and teacher we owe the development and modern conception of our twentieth century education:

the principal of question and answer followed by more questions in the continual search for truth.

Today, as in Socrates' time, the function of a teacher is to open the doors of knowledge and to inspire the pupil in his search of wisdom and truth.

Our Golden Years of Productivity are the end products of these ancient ideals which our teachers and schools have endeavored to attain.

Mr. Arthur J. Havlovic competently and genially handles the difficult position of principal of Western Hills.

Administrators Share in Our Golden Years

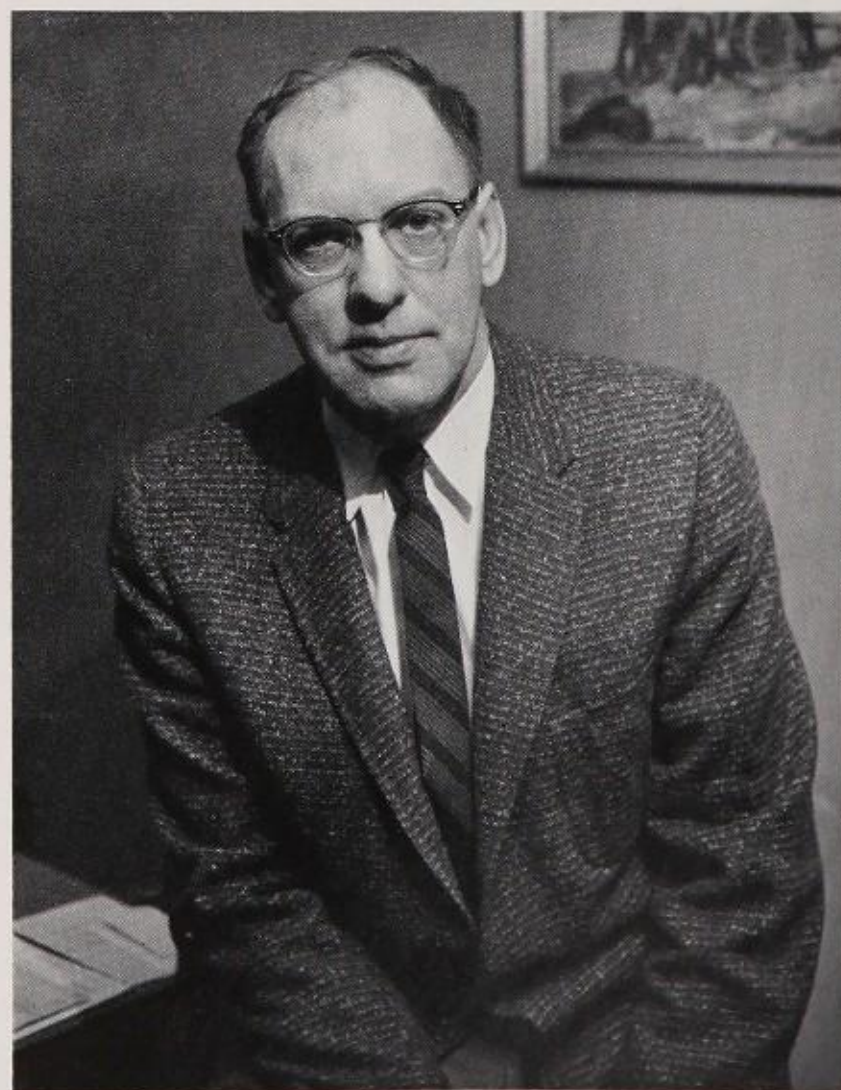

For thirty golden years Western Hills has given its students a high standard of education because of the unceasing effort of its administrators. Our ever alert and competent principal Mr. Arthur J. Havlovic continues the fine administrations started by our former principals, Mr. Benjamin Siehl and Mr. Rayburn W. Cadwallader.

Our Administrators

Mr. Hobson, assistant principal, has a ready smile and pleasant manner. These qualities make him quite popular.

The task of running a junior high school which confronts Mr. Shauck, our assistant principal, is not an easy one. He and the rest of his staff must help the new students adjust to the varied mental and physical problems of a large school. The problems range from the choice of suitable programs of study and social activities to individual and group discipline. With his genial personality and competent leadership, however, Mr. Shauck succeeds in preparing the pupils for the responsibilities that they will encounter in senior high school.

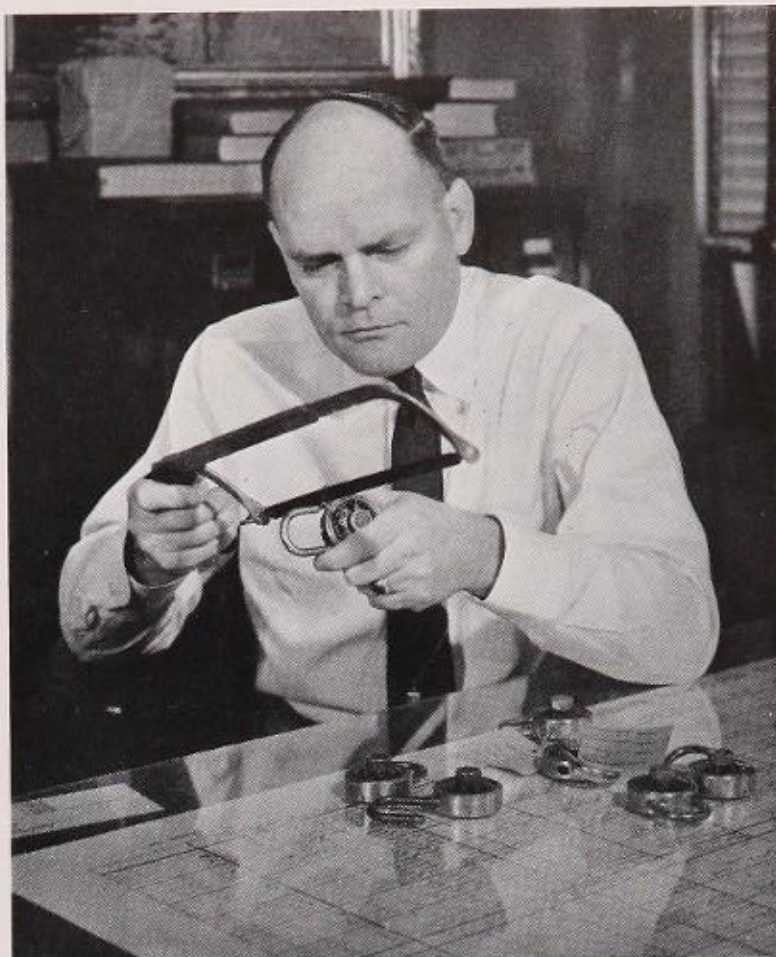

Mr. Shauck, assistant principal, is in charge of the junior high. His wise leadership is an asset to our school.

Plan School Life

Education is a debt from the present to future generations.

George Peabody

Mr. Hobson demonstrates determination as he vigorously attempts to saw open a damaged lock.

Mr. Havlovic is a busy man. Included in his day's work is the dictating of letters to his efficient secretary, Marian Rothert. One can see that he does not lose his pleasant manner even while plagued by his vast amount of work.

One of Mr. Shauck's duties is advising the Junior Student Council. A date for an important Student Council function seems to be the topic for a discussion with Pat Lunsford.

Mrs. Heninger, senior counselor, helps Sue Hopping and Don Schroer select colleges to fill their needs.

Mrs. Heninger Advises Seniors About College

Phyllis Lehman, Mildred Husemann, and Barbara Bicking take care of the clerical work in the office.

Expert Counseling--Our Golden Key To Success

If good counseling is the key to student success we should have many successful students at Western Hills, for we have an expert counseling staff. Three counselors, two secretaries, and two assistant principals concern themselves with student guidance and student problems. In the junior high office Miss Hanauer is charged with the tremendous task of knowing and helping all pupils of the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades. The duties of the senior high are divided between Mr. Conger and Mrs. Heninger. Though the counselors' loads are heavy, they do not usually need to concern themselves with attendance problems, because there are six teachers assigned to this work instead of homeroom duties. Using all the resources at their disposal, our counselors help us discover where our aptitudes and interests lie. One of the most valuable counseling tools, the Kudar Interest Inventory, is used in the eleventh grade. This test, together with achievement, psychological, and intelligence tests, enables counselors to assist students through personal interviews to choose wisely their courses in preparation for further education, or to make decisions regarding future employment.

Junior high counselor, Miss Hanauer, figures out the school's complicated bus schedule with her alert secretary, Charlene Hopper.

Mr. Conger, sophomore and junior counselor instructs Janet Schaefer, his secretary, in the processes of determining scholastic averages.

Teachers—Our Guides Through The Golden Years

In order to make their health courses both novel and interesting, Mr. McCartney, Mrs. Lily, and Miss Burk meet to discuss their subject.

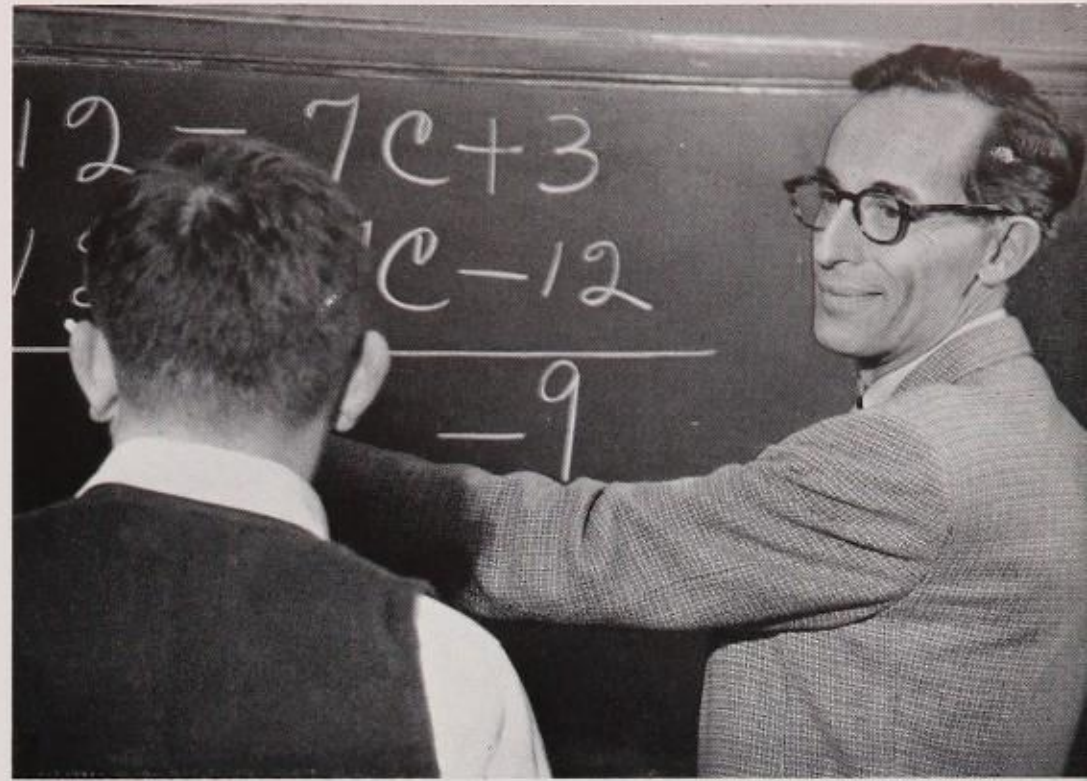

Teachers are our guides as we travel the path that leads us through the Golden Years of Learning. They help us to see the intricacies of many problems and show us novel methods of solution. They challenge us to be creative and help us to think for ourselves. They give us the benefit of their wise judgement and show us warm, personal understanding. They help us to grow from the inquisitive boys and girls we were into virile, straight-thinking individuals by advising us in our moments of indecision. Without these guides in our formative years of life, we would have a difficult time approaching maturity.

Mrs. Postle gives Rose Ann Miller individual guidance for making a dress from a pattern.

Of Learning

Putting clips on a barrette, a procedure requiring particular skill, is explained to Barb Wolfe by Mrs. Meyer.

With Mr. Martin's capable guidance and assistance, Dave Paulson accepts the challenge of a trying problem in ninth grade algebra.

To know how to suggest is the art of teaching.

— Amiel

Miss Geiger, Miss Bolan, Mr. Doerger, Miss Shilling, Miss Bayha use a "free" bell to transfer pupils' grades to office cards.

Mr. Miller helps students individually to improve their drawings.

Teachers Must Be Friendly, Thoughtful

Mrs. Greensmith discusses a short story with one of her students.

Mr. Minesinger, Miss Smith, and Mr. Thomas demonstrate the clever roles they played in our Newport Assembly.

Considerate— And Energetic

Mr. Fouch, Miss Slutz, and Mr. Hess discuss the reverberations of Sputnik.

Mrs. Walter lists the advantages for an advanced standing math program as
Mr. Anson and Mr. Law listen intently.

With the help of our librarians, Miss
Glass and Miss Logue, Miss Dufficy looks over material for her students.

Proving Mr. Dunkel's statement, "The early Bird catches the worm," Mr. Pauzek and Mr. Dunkel work out a problem in an early morning lab session.

Varied Activities Make

Mr. Whitaker works individually with his students to help them overcome their various speech difficulties.

Mrs. Lewis, Mr. Heubach, Mr. Otten, and Mrs. Goodfellow enjoy leisure conversation as they admire Mr. Heubach's convertible in the front circle. These spare moments come few and far between at our busy school.

Up A Teacher's Day

Everyday a teacher must not only instruct so that the students in his classroom will grasp the subject, but must also give individual attention other than in the classroom to satisfy the needs of either the below or above average individual. Teaching ranges from individual or small group speech therapy and driver's training, to entire classroom instruction in shop, laboratory, and academic courses. Actual classroom teaching, however, is not the only job of a teacher. He must find time during the day to read new material and consult with other teachers concerning new instructional procedures. Then too, he must find time to take care of the mountains of clerical work involved in his job. Teaching, developing student personalities, being pleasant in social intercourse with fellow teachers, and attending to the duties of home life are all activities which make up the variety of a teacher's day.

Miss Murphy, Miss Lewis, and Miss Clonch discuss the merits of a modern novel in connection with their teaching departments.

Our busy teachers must eat too! A huge appetite is developed by Mr. Kuechenmeister and Mr. Wuerdeman after a hard morning of teaching.

As Mr. Mier instructs Lucy Fletcher on the procedures of parking in narrow places, Donna Correll watches the difficult proceedings.

Mr. Tom Lilly, one of West Hi's bachelor teachers, begins the morning cheerfully with a cup of steaming coffee.

The Before School Hours

Mr. and Mrs. Fread, and their children enjoy breakfast together before school.

Miss Fulton observes the daily ritual of pushing Mr. Heinhold's car onto the parking lot. Mr. DePollo and Mr. Huth are the reluctant helpers.

Are Busy Ones For Most Teachers

Miss Tebbenhoff hails John Schaal, Howard Krueger, and Jay Kruse to be her valets. They have the honor of carrying Miss Tebbenhoff's packages to her classroom.

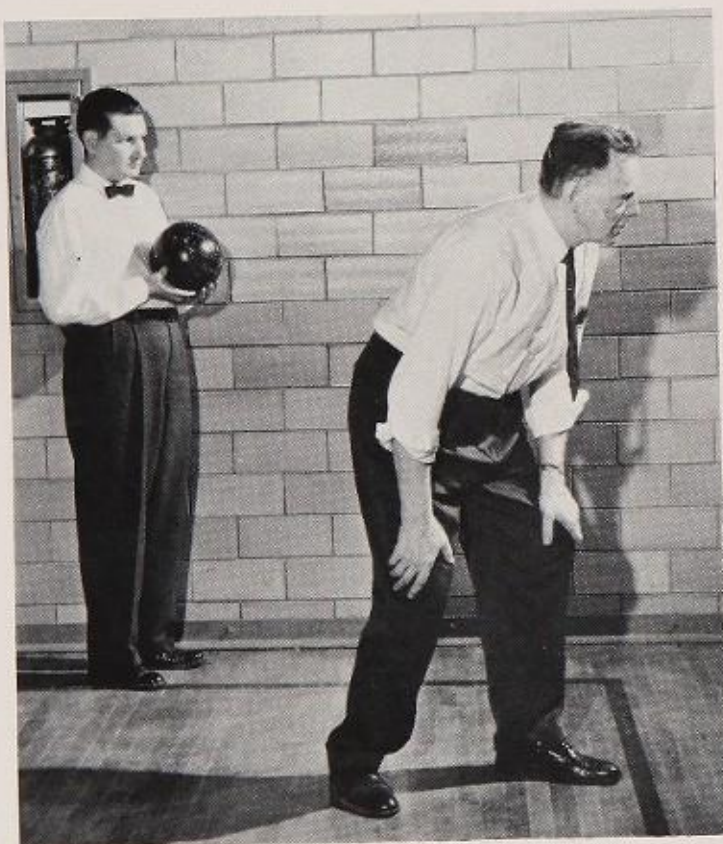

Stepping briskly toward school are Miss Good, Miss Klaserner, and Miss Kolks, who are contemplating another interesting day in their respective English classes.

Mr. Berringer, Mr. Chesley, Mr. Hopping, and Mrs. Cook grab a cup of coffee before 8:25 in the faculty lunchroom.

Skillful West High hunters, Mr. Nohr, Mr. Siekmann, and Mr. Morgan, take careful aim at a squirrel on a recent hunting trip in Indiana.

Bowling! That's the sport for Mr. Oldfield and Mr. Nocka.

Teachers Relax With

The blast of a shotgun mingled with the joyous exclamation of a hit, the crash of the bowling pins as another strike is scored, the splashing of a struggling bass, the steady thud of a shovel biting into the earth, and the fast moving beat of a horse trotting down a woodland path are just a few of the sounds that might be heard if one was to visit a teacher engaged in his hobby. The hobbies range from antique furniture, bowling, gardening, hunting, and horseback riding to model railroading, photography, tennis, tropical fish, and woodworking. Some of these hobbies, such as a fishing or hunting trip (traditional at West High), are enjoyed by a group while others are individual hobbies. By finding time in their busy schedules to pursue hobbies, our teachers gain enjoyment and relaxation from the tension of the day.

Gardening enthusiasts, Miss Peterson, Miss Yalen, Miss Constant, and Mrs. Nestor, trade varieties of plants for the spring gardens.

Hobbies After School

Planning a fishing trip is serious business for Mr. Gausman and Mr. Kuhn, but anticipation of a happy week-end brings a smile to Mr. Shackelford.

Miss Walters and Mrs. Spickard have fun watching six-year-old Albert Spickard riding his pony.

A brisk autumn day finds Mr. Crandall, Mr. Bennett, and Mr. Wollenhaupt helping Mr. Yung to get his yard in shape.

The End of a Perfect Day

On Teachers Recognition Day, Miss Botto and Mrs. Edgeworth enjoy the apples and corsages presented by Student Council and the Parents Association.

When the sunset steals through the windows, and the halls are lacking the clamor of the day, one can find a teacher preparing to leave for home. At home, a teacher finds his evening filled with as many activities as his school day. Besides grading papers and preparing lessons, he finds time to perform household duties and attend social affairs. When these activities are at last concluded, a teacher may, if he's not too tired, take time to watch a favorite television program.

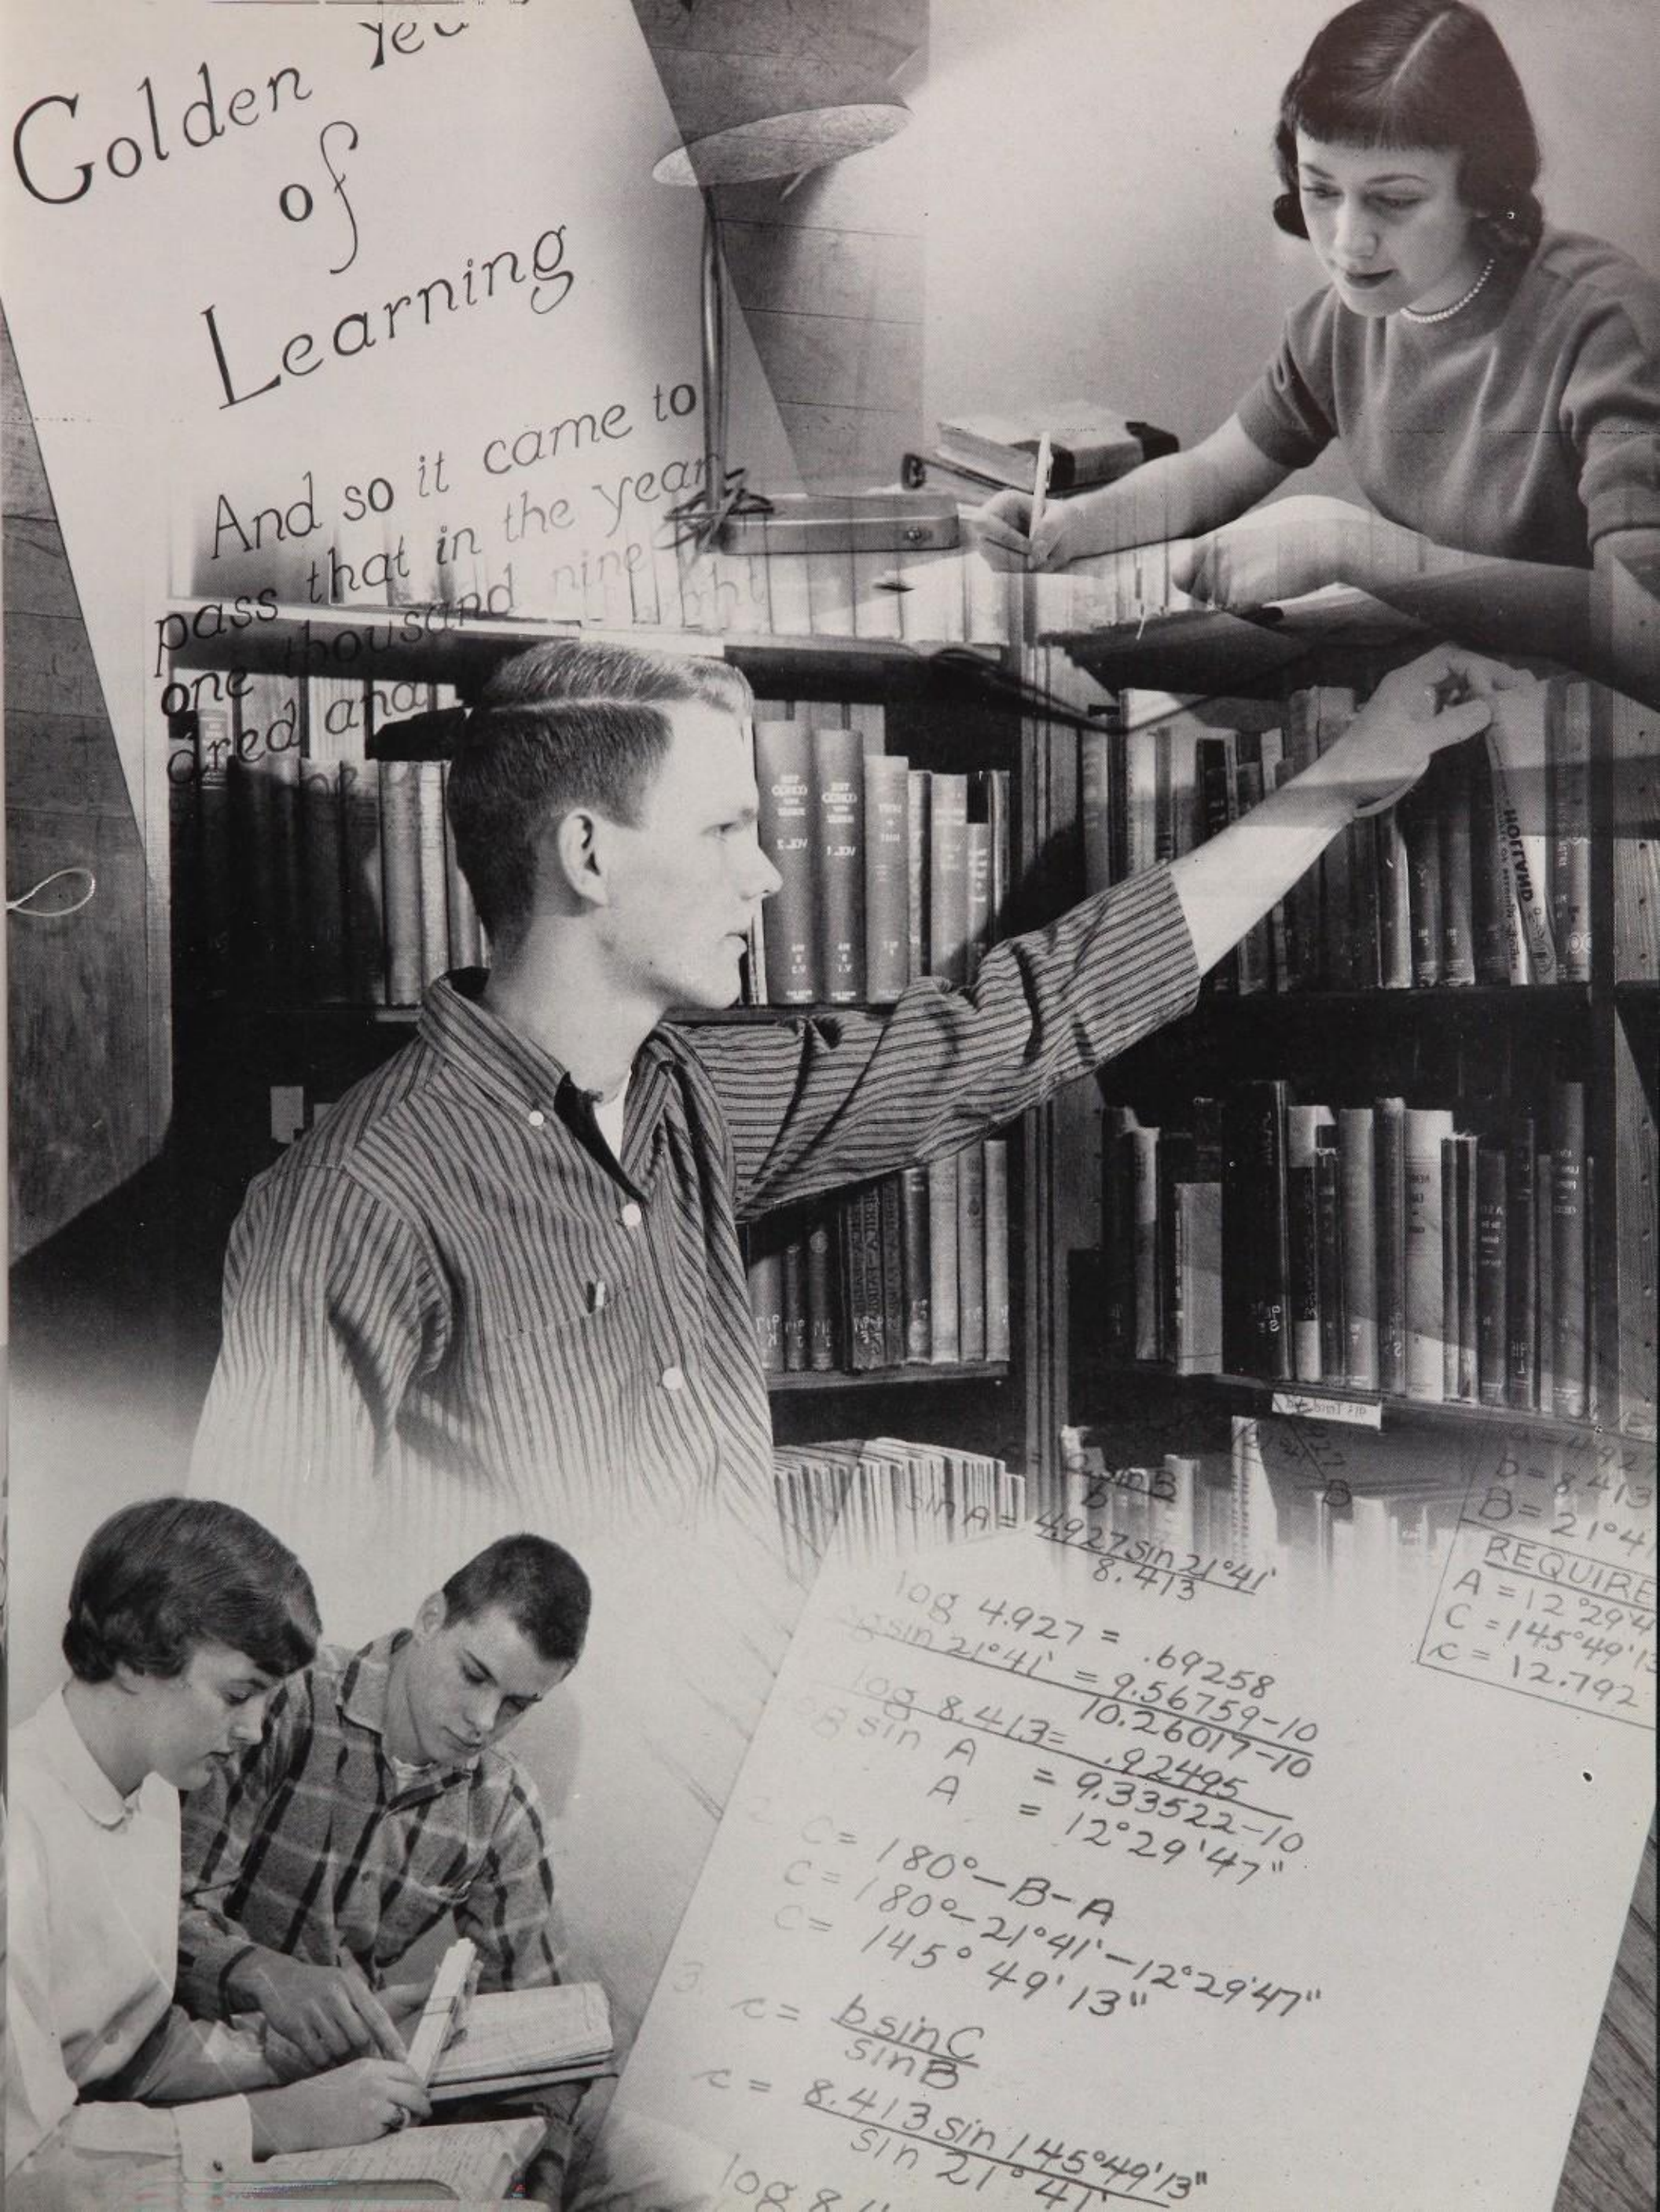

Mr. Love completes a worthwhile day with the evening cigar, after grading the last of his pupils' exams.

Tea and conversation are enjoyed by a few of West Hi's English teachers, Miss Fisher, Mrs. Hoppe, Mr. O'Neal, Miss Weber, and Mr. Kinnard.

Our rich and varied literary heritage is a source of wisdom explored by Mary Ann Kohl, David Conaway, and Kathryn Frobe.

It's not too hard to iron a shirt, according to Tom, but to explain "how" is another problem.

Hypodermic needles, potatoes! What's happening? P. Knepfle demonstrates his speech.

Basic to All Learning is Language . . .

We read, write, speak, and think with words

Have we ever stopped to realize what we would do if we were unable to converse with others and to convey our ideas freely? What would we do if no one understood us? We would be in a sad plight, indeed, if we were unable to express our thoughts and ideas in a form and manner that others might clearly understand. In this scientific age we must have a working knowledge of English in order to cope with the very problems of existence. In our English classes we develop an extensive vocabulary for everyday use, and we learn to construct grammatically correct sentences. We gain the ability to give and take criticism and the ability to work with others. We develop a love for truth and a deeper appreciation of spiritual values. Combining these points of learning with the thrill and satisfaction which we receive from creative experience, we are able to comprehend that English supplies us with the capacity and confidence to face unknown horizons in today's shrinking world.

In speech class, Billie Kaemmerle explains the five simple steps for wrapping Christmas gifts.

Genuine good taste consists in saying much in a few words; in choosing among our thoughts; in having order and arrangement in what we say, and in speaking with composure.

—Fenelon

With a dab of grease paint, a touch of rogue, a wisp of eyeshadow, and a few well-chosen words, Carol Studt gives the directions for applying make-up in a demonstration for dramatics class.

With flying fingers on the keyboard and silvery notes from a violin, Mary and Ed Rosener strive to capture the haunting refrains of Mendelssohn and other composers, who have so richly contributed to our cultural heritage.

In Music, Art,

*For sometimes hearts must falter, and the calm
Of life be shattered — then blessed is

Great music as a healing and a balm
For wounds of soul no surgery may

Carmen Lozano, who is a visiting student from Mexico City, acquaints Bill Wynne and Carolyn Kuwatch with Mexican life as she displays examples of the handicraft of her country.

and Foreign Languages, We Study Culture

Whether we are American, Mexican, or European, we can enjoy and appreciate the universal languages of art and music. As we learn to draw, we express our desires and imaginations with vivid or dull colors and bold or thin lines, just as man has always done in all ages and places. As we listen to golden notes of music or learn to play a musical instrument, we experience the rhythm and feel the moods that music has created throughout time. Although these languages of art and music are the most powerful methods of expression, we find that studying foreign languages also helps us understand our world neighbors. As we build our vocabulary of foreign terms, we increase our reading in books written about the beliefs and customs of other lands. From this historical background we build our knowledge of past and present cultures and are able to dream of future lands, perhaps on some distant planet. Through the accomplishments of languages, art, and music we are better equipped to take an intelligent part in our complex society.

Grotesque papier-mache masks are modeled from African dance masks by the eager students of the eighth grade class of Mrs. Goodfellow.

The days of Caesar, Cicero, and Virgil are recreated by the realistic adaptation of ancient Roman culture as presented by third and fourth year Latin students P. Mazza, M. Todorovich, B. Kohler, M. Hall, C. Bauer, and C. Schott.

Charting the lands of the world, Sheila Stuckey discover that the geography of a country affects the peoples' customs and behavior.

We Seek to Appreciate And Understand Other

The mystical world of yesterday and the complex world of today unfold to us through the study of social studies and languages. Our knowledge is continually broadening as we study the lives and languages of our ancestors and the history of their countries. Without this understanding we would be lost in a busy world where intercontinental travel is becoming an every-day duty for many people.

In world geography we become acquainted with the countries of the world, their cities, their customs, and their people. In modern history and world history we discover the past cultures of these countries, and in sociology we determine the reasons for man's behavior. Thus, we hope someday to be able to say with Robert Burns:

"It's coming yet, for a' that
That man to man; the world o'er Shall brothers be for a' that."

Flash! Here's Germany brought to the classroom. Eckart Muschick and Gotz Hopt, our students from Germany, bring first-hand information.

Foreign Lands Personalities

"Off with their heads!" is the cry of Keith Koerber as he explains to his history class the purpose of the guillotine which he made.

*He drew a circle that shut

But Love and I had the wit
to win:
We drew a circle that took him in!*

—Edwin Markham

Phyllis Graf, with the help of Dan Dietrich, explains a chart of the United Nations' activities from 1945 to 1955, for the senior sociology class of Miss Slutz.

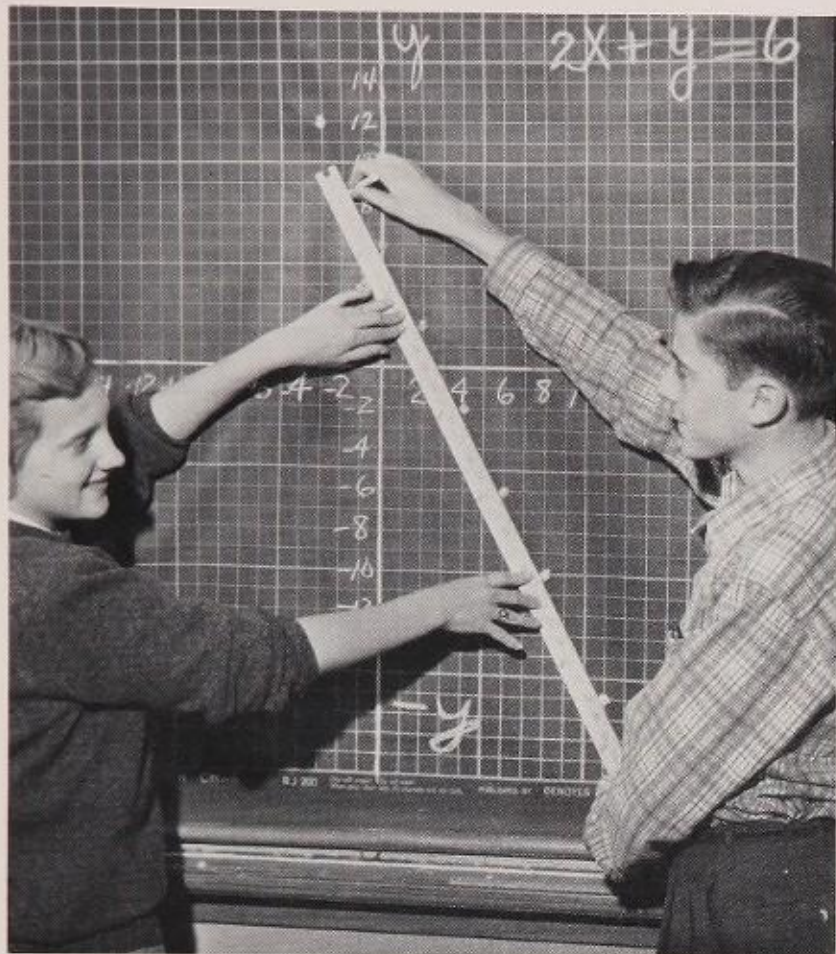

Seventh graders, Lynne Kaemmerle and Karen Nelson, reach into space with Richard Maschmeyer's homemade telescope.

Sputniks Challenge and Stimulate Us

Seniors also reach toward the outer spaces by developing experiments in the chemistry laboratory. Creating smoke are Henel Benjamin and Ralph Tepe.

We Reach Out into Space . . . Through the Study of Science and Mathematics

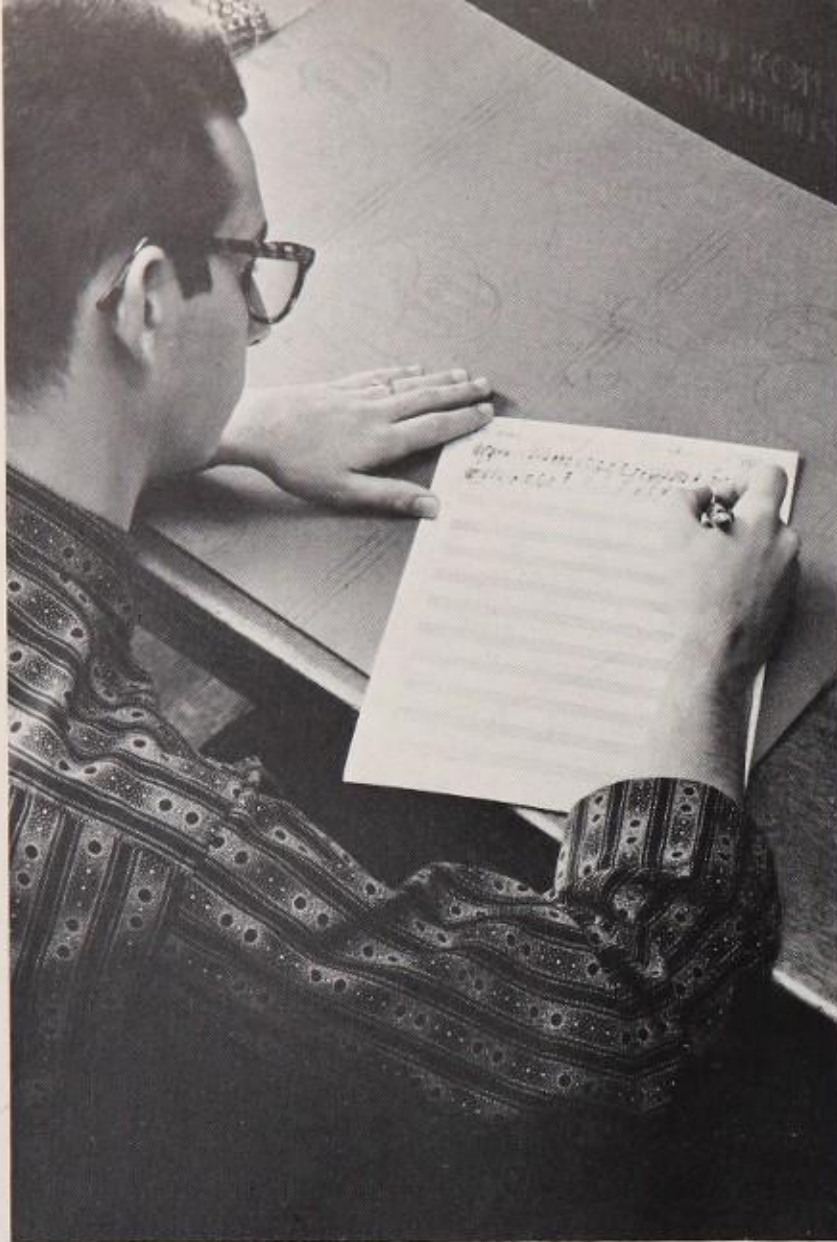

Linear equations present no problem to Karen Vollmer and Kent Jackson as they use the graph to solve a problem in algebra class.

In this atomic age of missiles and satellites, we have truly seen that science and mathematics, long said to be man's paths to truth, are vital links in our democratic and free way of life. Here at West Hi, we have always been fortunate in having a

All beings in this universe are part of a vast vital scientific and mathematics program. In addition to the ordinary subjects taught in the classrooms, we obtain knowledge from tours of giant machine tool concerns and metropolitan power companies. We have an accelerated mathematics program, consisting of calculus and analytics, which has increased the incentive of all the students and made the teachers proud of student achievement. We study up-to-date developments in physics and chemistry in order to gain a background in politics and economics as well as become acquainted with the physical sciences. Through these added efforts, West High is producing well informed citizens who should be able to share in and contribute largely to the golden era of the future.

Ed Kirschman seems puzzled by the cube root scale, which Eva Schmidt is showing to Janet Probst, Karen Baily, and Marty Rupprecht.

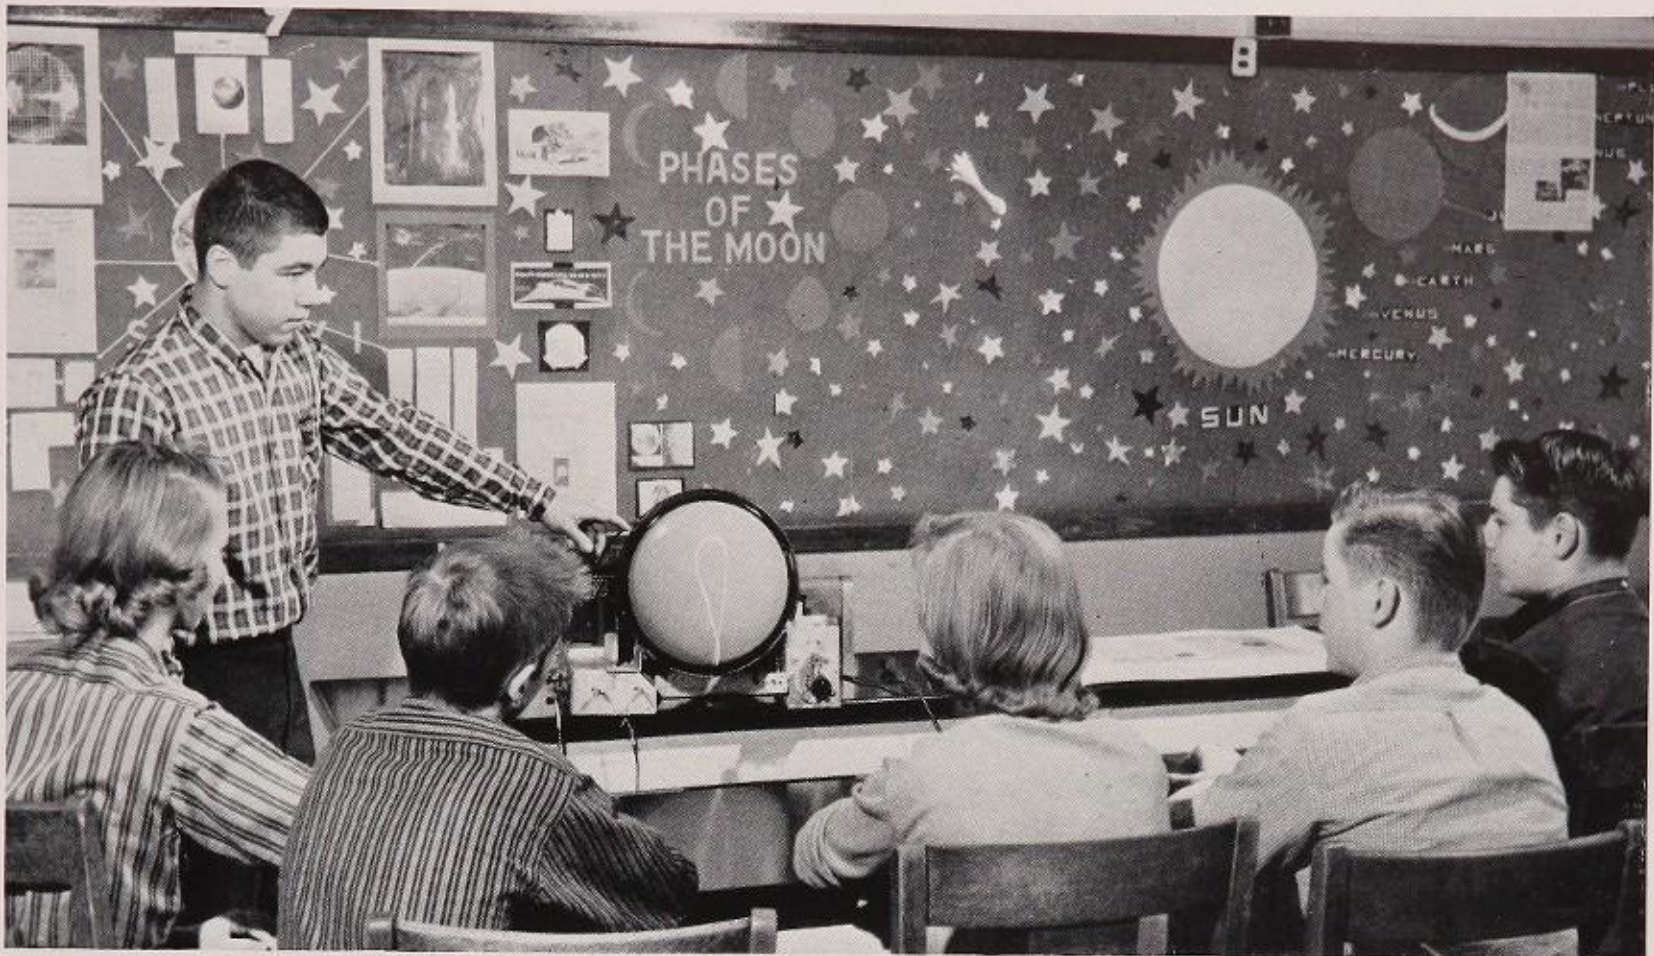

Even in the composition of a modern rock and roll tune, Ken Heist recognizes the ever present pattern that dominates his daily life.

We Recognize the Beauty

All beings in this universe are part of a vast pattern. We recognize this pattern in a beautiful geometrical design or in the symmetrical beauty of a leaf. The discovery of nature's plan is easy to see and understand in things such as these, but how many of us have ever realized that there is a pattern in a beautiful melody or a lovely poem? Even man, who sometimes believes himself to be the ruler of everything, must conform and contribute to this balance. In our studies we seek to find out the how and why of this universal balance. In physiology we see this pattern come to life in the human body with its compact and interdependent parts. In math we struggle to obtain the correct answer to a difficult problem and are thrilled to see the marvel of its fitting solution. In the study of ancient culture we find the same human problems and the same aspirations that we have today. Contemplating this recurrent pattern in life, we realize with humility the beauty of the infinite and awesome universe in which we live.

of a Universal Pattern Around Us in Our World

Against the pattern of stars in Mr. DePollo's room, Paul Nohr explains the oscilloscope to a mystified junior high science class. Don't be puzzled, kids, the oscilloscope (which Paul made) is a device that can capture sound waves.

*To me every hour of light and dark is a miracle,
Every cubic inch of space is a miracle,
Every square yard of the earth is spread with the same,
Every foot of the interior swarms with the same.
To me the sea is a continual miracle,
The fishes that swim — the rocks — the motion of the waves — the ships
with men in them,
What stranger miracles are there?*

—Walt Whitman

The silvery fish, which dart back and forth among the swaying water plants, are a fascinating part of the intricate design evident in nature. The aquarium in a science classroom provides this beauty.

The Seventh Grade

Gazing hopefully at her first cupcakes, Lynne Kaemmerle enjoys a "first experience" which awaits every seventh grade girl.

Six years of basic work, study, and play — and now at last, the rookie has arrived at West Hi. To his juvenile mind the school first appears as a medieval castle, full of bewildering passages and dark chaos; but finally, the pattern of the junior high school emerges and the rookie's life hums with the joy of a new and exciting experience. He now becomes an active part of the school, but he does not cease to be faced with the perennial problems of locker trouble and getting to class on time. His daily life includes the memorable experience of making new friends — a process which will continue forever as our rookie begins the unforgettable adventure of junior high school.

Seventh graders say they can do it—study and watch T.V. at the same time. At least Diedra Van Hoose seems to think it is possible.

Top the Agenda for the Rookies

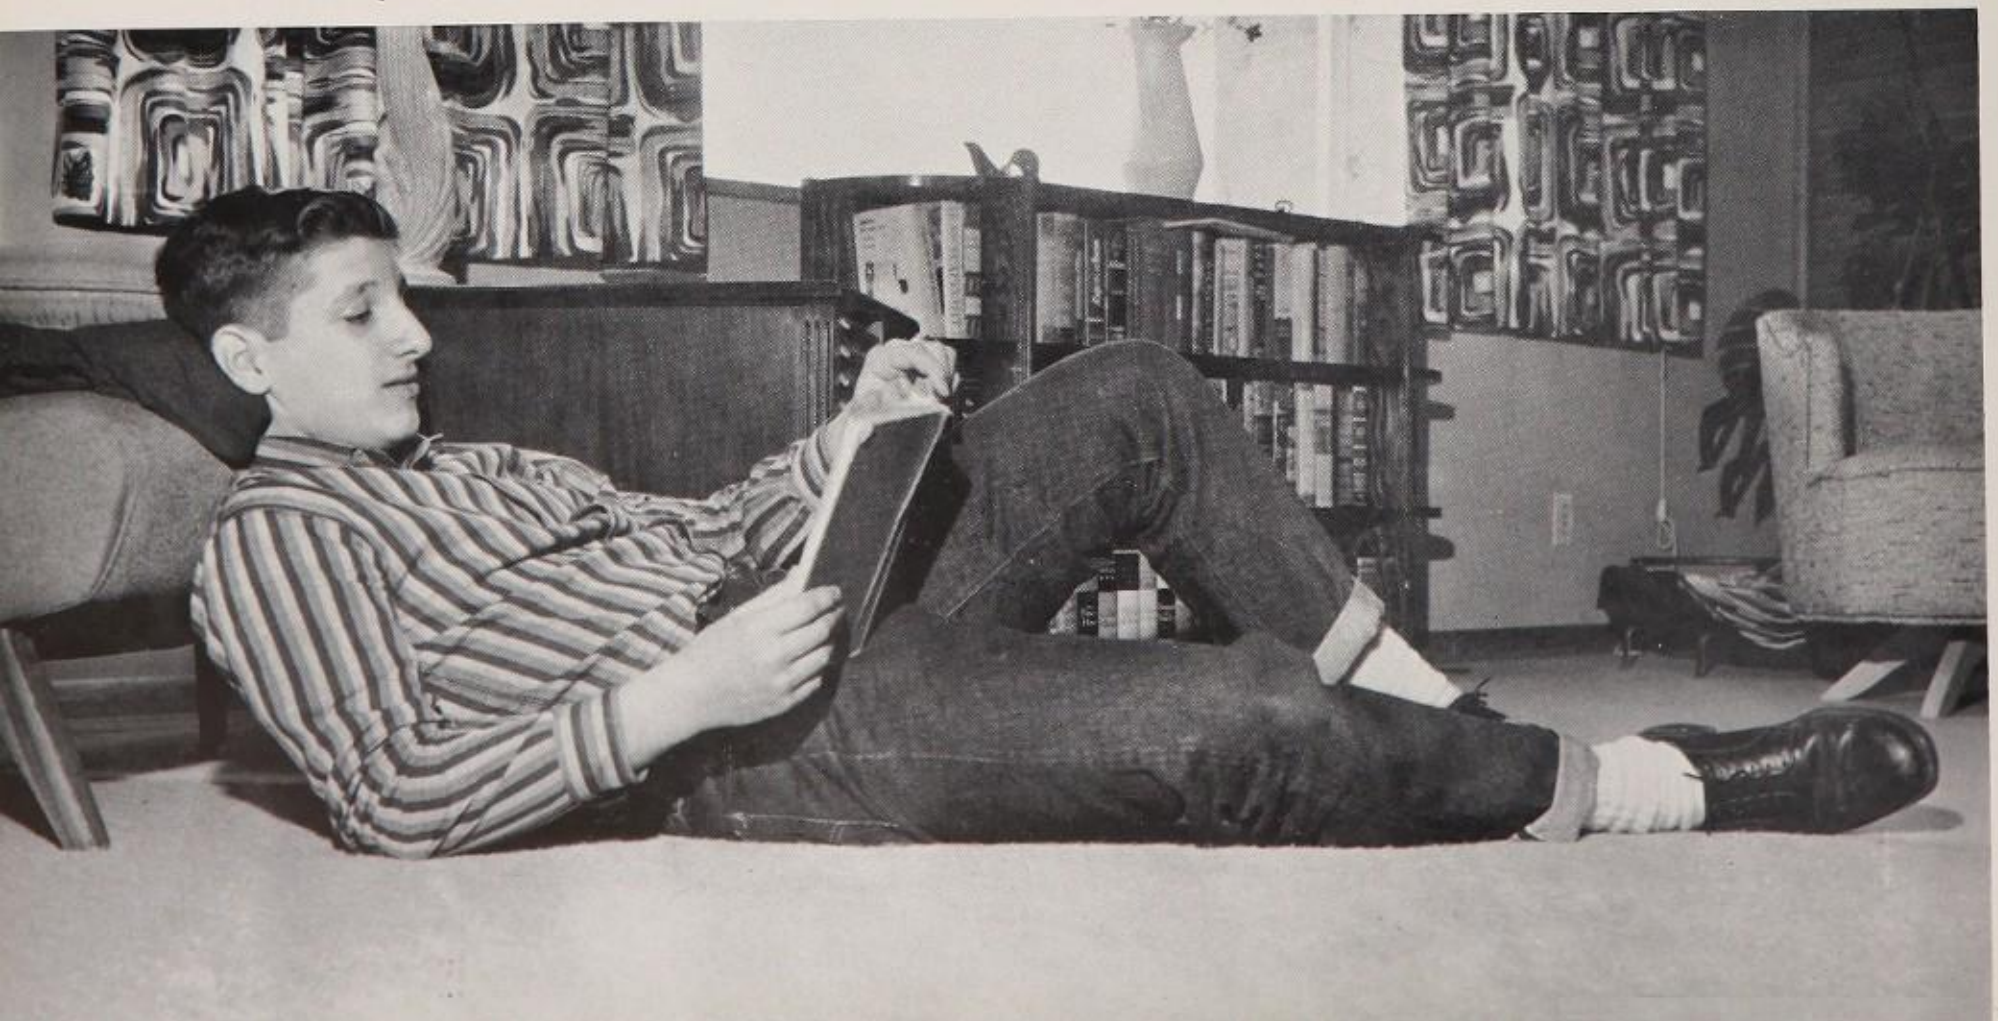

The Eighth Grade

Now that she's had sewing once before, Betsy Dresser in an "old hand" at making pajamas. Her confidence is typical of her grade.

"It certainly is great not to be a rookie any more!" This typical comment phrases well most eighth graders' reactions. Yes, being an eighth grader certainly is more fun than being a little rookie. Attending sports events, Bandwagon, and other school activities now becomes a reality instead of a dream. The break with grade school is complete, and the challenges of senior high are coming into view. The eighth grade is one of the important background years of high school. Good study habits must be formed; the ability to get along well with teachers and students must be acquired; and the capacity for accepting responsibility must be developed. Eighth graders may seem a little self-assured and proud, but who wouldn't, on being an active part of West Hi?

With the eighth grade comes more studying for Bill Stergiopoulos and what more typical place for an eighth grader is there than the floor?

New Interests are Cultivated

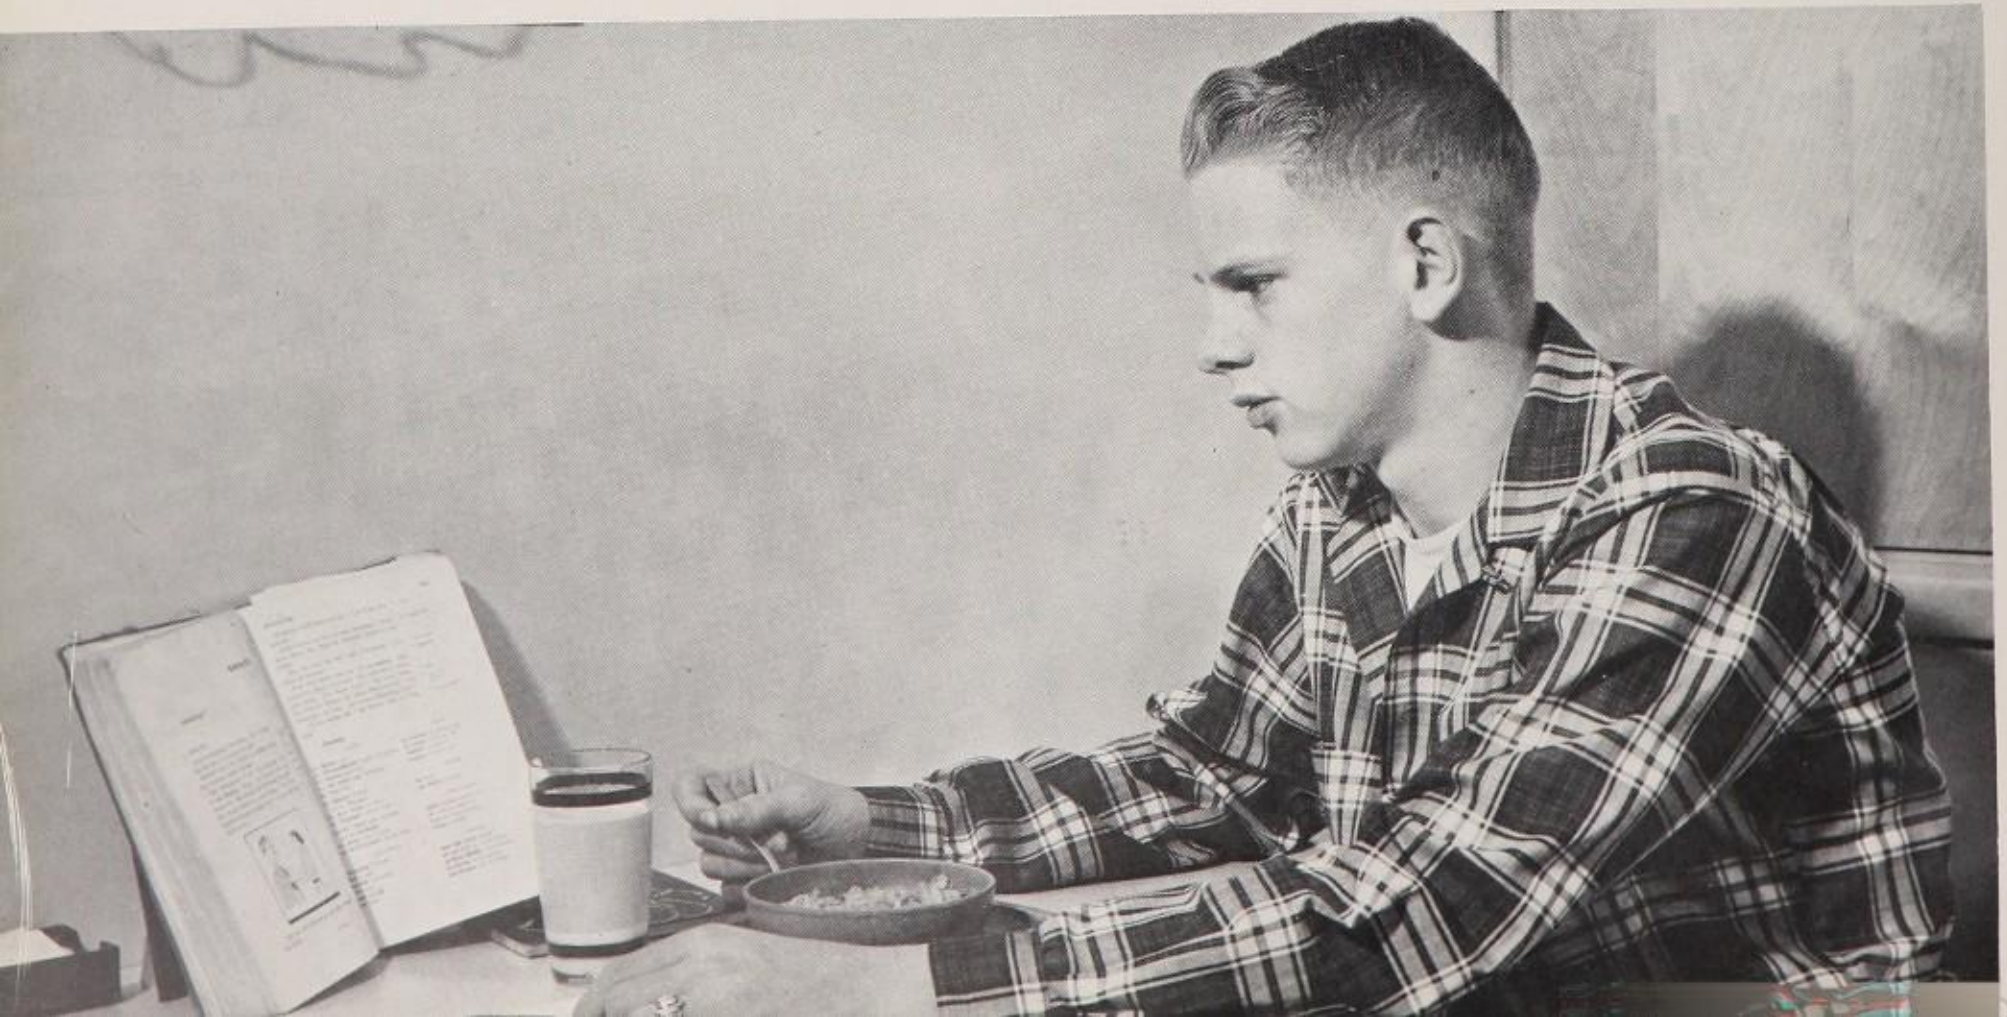

Freshmen Occupy

In mechanical drawing Bill Barnes and Jeff Yankosky have the novel experience of reproducing detailed drawings to scale.

The last year in junior high arrives and the freshmen finally receive the opportunity to prove their leadership ability. Junior Student Council provides many conscientious students with a means of taking an active part in the governing of the school. Fellowship, faith, and fun are the main attraction which the Y organizations offer. The responsibility for the planning of all the meetings and activities of these organizations is in the hands of the capable ninth grade officers. Participation in sports is a main activity in the life of every freshman. Swarms of girls hurry to the gym to participate in their favorite sport. Flocks of boys try out for places on the teams. Everyone who wishes to, finds an opportunity to take an active part in life in the ninth grade.

It never ends! Even at breakfast Jim Ebbers, like numerous other freshmen, takes time out to sneak a last minute peek at his homework.

Freshmen Anticipate

June is here and excitement pervades the third floor. Gay chatter and laughter fills the air. It sounds as though the freshmen are overjoyed that the year has ended. But why? Didn't they enjoy having their own page in the Breeze and having their own staff in complete charge of it? Didn't they appreciate the thrill of having their own football and basketball teams? Didn't the lively music of the junior high band between halves of a game and the marching and twirling of the majorettes make them proud to say that they are freshmen? Didn't their cheerleaders add a lively part to both football and basketball games? Didn't they receive satisfaction from being able to select their own subjects for the year? Then, why all this cheerfulness because the year is over? The answer is easy. Now they will have to climb only two flights of stairs instead of three every morning!

A "Shorter Climb"

Senior High Holds

"Ooh, a dead frog! We're going to dissect that?" Beverly Braun exclaims. Actually dissecting in zoology class is fascinating.

When sophomores enter the wonderful world of senior high school, they discover that although they are no longer the leaders they can now participate in senior high activities. This is the year that they can belong to many of the clubs. This is the year that they can join a sorority or fraternity if they choose to do so. This is the year that they are eligible for reserve and varsity teams. This is the year that they enjoy the fun of the first class round-up. This is the year that they get those long-awaited physicals. Finally, this is the year that they begin to chart their courses for later life, planning what subjects they will take to best suit them for their future careers. Yes, the sophomore year brings new fun, new adventures and new experiences to all.

Sophomores Meet

Most sophomores undergo a period of tension as they adjust to the demands of senior high. Now an array of new and challenging subjects confront them. The accelerated subjects, math and English, stimulate gifted students to put forth greater efforts in their respective fields. For business-minded pupils, typing is the first step in their training. Plane geometry offers an exciting new concept in math. Botany and zoology enable the scientifically minded to delve deeper into the realm of science. Finally, world and modern history broaden students knowledge of the events of the world. Now, too, comes a new outlook. To the serious student grades become increasingly important for he realizes that his success in the future depends upon his efforts now. Looking forward to his senior year he begins to work toward Cum Laude and other coveted scholastic honors.

New Challenges

The Junior Year

Dave Morgan tests a technique he learned in journalism, by interviewing Rick Reusing for the Breeze about his baseball collection.

Whether it be 1928 or 58 the eleventh grade is a year of study, fun, and excitement. As numerous eleventh graders before them, this year's juniors observed the varied traditions which serve to make a year so memorable. Night after night they pains-takingly memorized tedious physics' formulas, drowsily waded through mammoth American history books, or toiled over that first research paper. Yet, the year did not consist entirely of study. Juniors dashed madly from sports to clubs to the Breeze and Annual. There was also the excitement of electing class officers, the fun of the junior class dance and the thrill of receiving rings. As the year came to a close, joyful feelings of anticipation for the senior year were mingled with pleasant memories of the golden year just past.

Studying together — that's the fad in the junior year. Here Charlene Mayleben and Mark Steele take time out to show how it's done.

The Senior Class of 1958

As the years go by, and our memories grow dim, there is one era that we shall never forget — our Golden Years at Western Hills. The announcement of the class officers; the hilarious chorus line at the Buckboard Bounce; the hushed crowd at the moment just before the crowning of a new queen; the yelling and cheering of the hopeful supporters at every Mustang game; the blazing sun, the swimming, the strike-outs at the Senior Outing; the misty-eyed, happy faces on Class Day; and finally, graduation, the climax of our Golden Years — these will linger long as wistful memories of 1958.

Standing on the steps are the Senior Class officers: Jim Lemon—President, Tom Ziegler—Vice-President, Joan Immenhort—Treasurer, Carol Cottingham—Secretary.

The Golden Years of Activities

Long ago the Greeks realized that relaxed minds and physical well-being were just as important to their citizens as high intellect and creative ability. They also knew that a combination of these elements was the ideal to be achieved . . . Toward this end they relaxed to the music of lyres and flutes or participated in the heralded Olympic Games or sculpted their immortal masterpieces. We, today, model after this Greek ideal and combine work and play. After a studious class we dance in Bandwagon or play nine innings of baseball or take photographs for the Breeze. Our recreational activities as well as our educational are entwined inseparably with the Greek Ideals.

Various Activities Add

For children and youth, dancing in the parlor or on the green may be a very pleasant and healthful amusement . . .

— Sir Joshua Reynolds

Our enthusiastic cheerleaders forming a rosette of color and pep, smile prettily for the photographer. They are Carol Gudgeon, Judy Richardson, Carol Cottingham, Dixie Klemme, Colleen Corcoran, Billie Kaemmerle, and Toni Sillman.

Spice to School Life

The mind ought sometimes to be diverted, that it may return the better to thinking.

— Phaedrus

Bubbling with Christmas spirit, members of the P.T.A., Mrs. Steinbuch, Mrs. Paulsen, and Mrs. Goldsberry consult Miss Gates for her advice as they plan a party honoring Western Hills teachers.

The air is filled with carefree voices and violent splashes. Getting into the swim of things at the Annual Staff picnic are Carol Beck, Carol Ensminger, Molly Heidrich, Judy Diers, Ard Wander, Dick Ebberts, Karen Lundin, Julie Shinkle, and Jo Ann Hague.

Our confident speech team pauses on the steps for a pep talk from adviser, Miss Lewis, before leaving for the anticipated tournament. Incidentally, they won!

We Receive Honors

The joy of receiving honors is experienced each year by many of our students. This year the Safety Committee won the National Safety Award; the speech team placed first in the Ohio High School District Tournament; the Annual won two National awards; the Breeze was named the outstanding newspaper in the Ohio Valley; the swimming team placed first in the city; the bowling team won the P.H.S.L.; and eleven seniors placed in National Merit Scholarships. These are only a few of the accomplishments of pupils attending Western Hills.

Student Council committee chairmen proudly admire the award-winning exhibit of the safety committee.

"Boy that music really swings," is Jackie Mazza's comment to Randy Smith at the anticipated Mr. Western Hills Dance. George Scheurenstuhl and Barb Speer also enjoy the catchy rhythm of Jim Hughes' popular band.

"Yea West Hi, beat Elder," resounds from the throats of enthusiastic rooters gathered for the annual Pow Wow held the night before the Turkey Day Game.

Energetic and Happy Spirit Develops Victory

"There should have been twelve winners," was Ken Conatser's embarrassed reply as Ann Patton presented to him the Mr. Western Hills trophy. Janet Niehaus, who sponsored Ken's campaign, stands ready with his regal sash at this annual G.A.A. event.

As voices hushed in eager anticipation, and trumpets sounded a fanfare, Gene Wood crowned Carol Cottingham Basketball Queen of 1958. Her attendants were Sandy Drew and Nancy Gieringer.

Dramatics class members, J. Schaal, B. Schenk, F. Rissover, and J. Race, participate in the annual Thanksgiving assembly.

Assemblies Are Entertaining

The administration of Western Hills endeavors to produce educational, as well as entertaining assemblies. Through the combined forces of the faculty and students, this goal is achieved. At Thanksgiving and Christmas, the drama club presented skits to make more clear the meanings of these holidays. The English department, with the help of various students, presented a program illustrating the helpful uses of our English language. Assemblies also included publicity skits such as those of the Annual and Breeze staffs to kick off their subscription campaigns.

The production of "Gift of the Magi" is given in the Christmas assembly. The actors are J. Hague, J. Lull, and F. Rissover.

Annual staff members promote their subscription drive with a skit.

In the entertaining English assembly, "High School Harry" has some difficulty in placing the period in his sentence of chorus girls.

"Who turned the lights off? Where are all my bonds?" screams Lillie Bell as inmates and relatives of "The Cloisters" gasp in horror.

The Senior Class Play

Hilarious humor, tender pathos, and excitement of adventure were combined in "The Curious Savage," this year's senior class play. The plot revolved around Ethel Savage, heiress to a large fortune, who had been placed in a mental institution by her step-children. This unusual setting provided excellent opportunities for sensitive acting by the cast. The play was directed by Miss Suzanne Fulton, dramatics teacher.

"Cloister" inmates rejoice over the realization of their dreams.

"Mrs. Paddy, please tell us where the bonds are hidden," pleads Doctor Immit to one of the inmates staying at the sanitarium.

Willing Cooperation Creates A Successful Band

All musical people seem to be happy; it is to them the engrossing pursuit; almost the only innocent and unpunished passion.

— Sidney Smith

"The Golden Years of Activity" would not be complete without a snappy, marching band. The one-hundred-ten musicians composing West Hi's Band today, are the "descendants" of that first energetic, enthusiastic, but meager group which marched for West Hi before the doors opened in 1928. Few people realize the hours of planning necessary to put on band shows such as those presented during half-time at the games. First, an idea committee gets together with Mr. Brady and all suggestions are pooled. Next, formations are sketched and corresponding music is decided upon. After this, the information must be measured according to yard lines, and every player must be represented in the formations by a number and letter. Music must be re-arranged and shortened so the performance will not exceed the five minute limit. Finally, practice makes perfect, so band members trudge wearily, but determinedly, up and down the field over and over again to synchronize their movements. After the fall season of football and muddy fields, the band plunges into concert music, all-city scores, and the anticipated "Bandwagon" production presented every spring.

Band Letter Club officers take the first step toward a week-end band show as they plan the formations. Gathered around the formation board are Nancy Gieringer, secretary; Charles Reusing, treasurer; Jim Hughes, president; and Bill Johnston, vice president.

Directors of music, Mr. Unverzagt, Mr. Brady, and Mr. Rimanoczy are finishing details on a typical music score for an assembly program.

Giving a shrill whistle and a sharp command, Ken Heist starts the band.

Choir Adds Color To Holiday Programs

The Western Hills A Cappella Choir responds instantly to a quick glance and the up-lifted hands of the director. Then one-hundred-ten perfectly blended voices fill the air. Under the experienced leadership of Mr. Rimanoczy, the choir has a busy agenda, performing annually with the orchestra in the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies, "Bandwagon", and the May Festival. To be a part of this renowned choral group, each choir member begins Junior Choir during his seventh or eighth grade year, meeting two and a half times a week to practice. Next he graduates to Intermediate Choir, and finally is eligible to try out for Senior Choir in his sophomore or junior year. After this goal is reached, he must continue to devote one period a day to choir and many hours before or after school. When the senior year finally draws to a close, however, all graduating choir members reluctantly return their cherished maroon robes, retaining only the happy memories of fellowship associated with choir.

Breeze Wins Award As Result of Diligent Work

Excitement reigns in the familiar "Breeze" room on press day, as the clock nears the fatal hour of five. Pages of copy are hurriedly proof-read, pictures are measured again, and heads are re-arranged. Then off to the press! However, this last minute rush is well worth the effort as the final product is circulated throughout the school. This year, as brought out in the assembly production written by the staff, the "Breeze" changed from a four page, seven column newspaper to an eight page, five column tabloid, which has been well received by the whole student body. A rewarding honor was also received this year by the paper. Because of the fine coordination of the "Breeze" staff under the direction of adviser Miss Irene Walters, our "Western Breeze" won first place in the Miami Valley High School Journalism Association Contest.

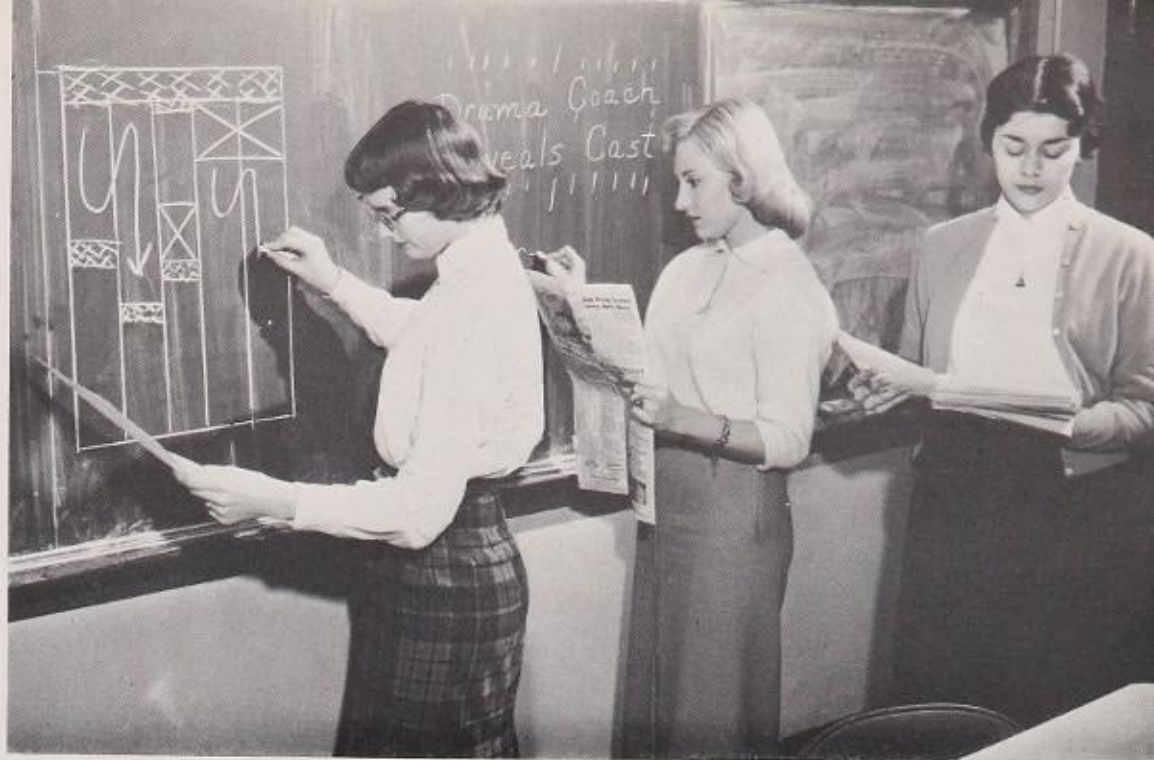

Co-feature editors Judy Richardson and Judy Kruse post numerous announcements and deadlines for the copy writers of the staff.

Sports editors, Barb Speer and Bob Francis find something very amusing in one of the many sports pictures to be used on their page of the next Breeze.

Working behind the scenes on a Breeze publication, are co-associate editors Janice Threm and Karen Skony. Helping out is copy editor Gail Polster.

Giving assistance to business managers Anna DeVore and Nancy Rehn, is the staff photographer, Dale Guckenburger.

Handling exchange correspondence are Jackie Mazza, Nedra Redman, Elaine Lock, Pat Poppe, and Jack Hennekes. Drawing a lay-out is Marion White; Jo Ann Hague types circulation lists.

Annual Staff Portrays "Golden Years"

Members of the underclass section, Howard Krueger, Judy Kleeman, Florence L'Hommedieu, and Barb Downey, seem pleased with the results as they energetically plan pages on the pasting board.

Although the school year of Western Hills officially began in September, the production of the 1958 Annual was well on its way by that time. Pictures had already been taken and layouts had been planned. The many hard hours of work, however, had just begun. Picture days had to be scheduled and money, ads, and subscriptions had to be collected. As pictures returned, they had to be measured to fit a layout. Next, the nightmare of writing captions and copy began. Each line of characters was counted, re-counted, and counted again to meet the exact requirements, and soon the dummies began to take their shapes. By the time the days of proof-reading had come and gone, each staff member experienced a warm glow of satisfaction as he proudly looked back on his section. Truly he had done his share well to portray the "Golden Years" of Western Hills.

Karen Lundin and Alice Seidler frantically search for ideas in previous annuals to complete their own sections.

Memorable Talent Prevails in Bandwagon

West Hi's annual array of colorful talent, Bandwagon, was originated in 1945 by West Hi's musical director, Mr. Brady. During the thirteen years of production, West Hi turned out famous stars such as Ed Roll, Harvey Honneker, and Rosemary Clooney. In years to come, we feel Bandwagon will continue to turn out stars and to be one of the most anticipated school events in the Golden Years of Activity.

The Backbone of A Team — The Coaches

The success, fun, and knowledge that a team experiences from participating in sports could not be possible without the guidance of coaches. The coach is an adviser and teacher to the athlete. Besides helping boys discover their own abilities and potentialities, the coach also has the worries and responsibilities of producing a good team. Much of the burden of the teams and of sports participation for all boys falls upon Mr. Robert Siekmann, who is our athletic director. "Siek's" untiring hard work and boundless enthusiasm permeate the physical education department and make possible a smooth running organization. For these reasons the boys of West Hi would like to pay a tribute to the coaches.

Varsity Football

The Western Hills Mustangs ended another football season by placing third in the P.H.S.L. With only seven returning lettermen, the team ended the season with a 5 won, 5 lost record. Coach Kappes' boys started the season with a bang by being the only team of the public high schools to score in the Pigskin Preview. The team was at its best as it won its first four games. The following game Western was stopped by the mighty big blue of Hamilton. This game slowed the Mustangs down and the following game they were defeated by the Central Knights. Western then bounced back to defeat Withrow in a hard fought battle. Despite this victory the team could not manage to pull itself together. West Hi ended the season by dropping the last two games to Woodward and Elder. Two of the most outstanding players were Roger Vorherr and Ken Conatser.

Reserve Football

The Reserve football squad, coached by Woody Singerman, finished the season as did the varsity squad, winding up in third place. The Mustangs had a 3 won, 3 lost record. Team spirit was good as they defeated the Knights of Central in their first game. Following this game, West Hi crushed the big Reds from Hughes. The next three games were lost to Walnut, Woodward and Taft. The team ended the season well by defeating Withrow, raising hopes for a strong team next year.

This year the Reserve team again followed the hard and only path to victory — hard work. Each day the squad worked toward its goal of becoming a single, fighting group. Hours after everyone else had left school, the team could be found scrimmaging, conditioning, and building itself into a strong unit, but the drudgery paid off in exciting and thrill-packed moments.

Cross Country

As the frost of autumn creeps into the air, the cross country team begins to work out. The cool, crisp days add vigor to the boys' steps as they sprint endlessly around the track, preparing for the competitive meets at Avon Fields. In order to compete in these exhausting meets boys must build considerable stamina which is achieved only by hours of workout and exercise.

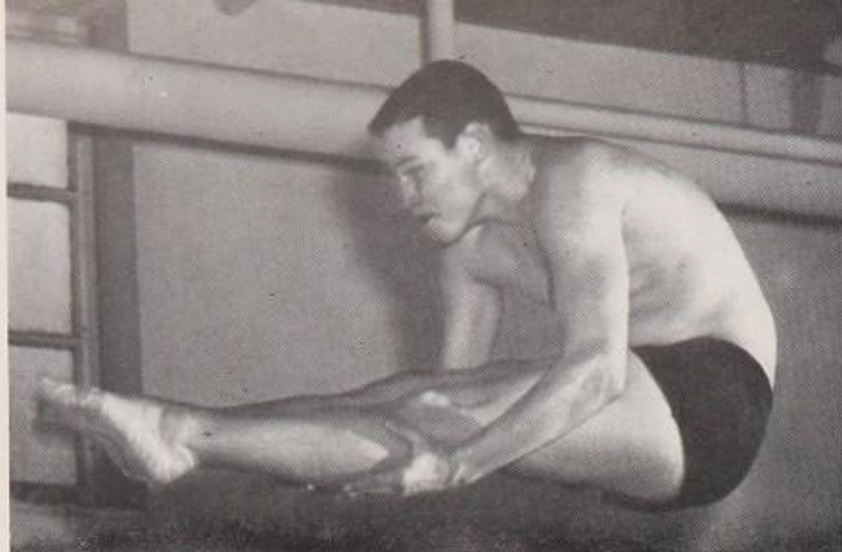

Although the cross country boys did not bring home first prize or have a championship team, they did do their best, participating in the sport whole-heartedly and enthusiastically.

Swimming Team Great in

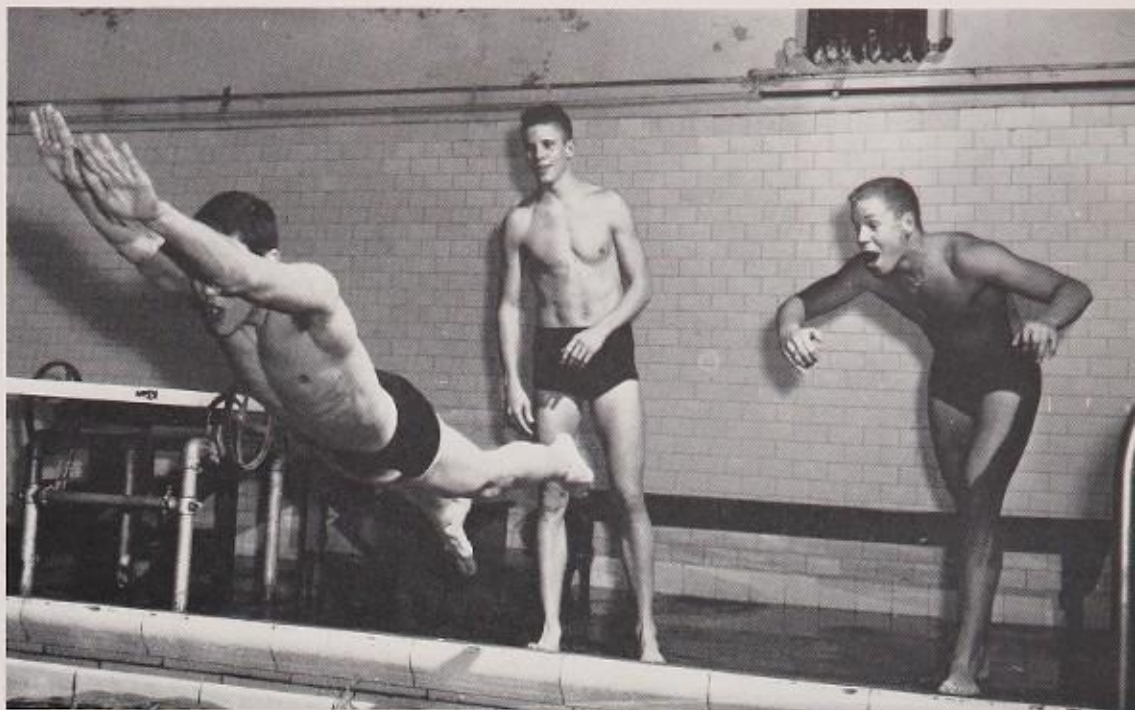

That the 1958 swimming squad would be a hard team to beat immediately became apparent when the Mustangs swamped the Middies in Middletown in the first meet of the season. In successive dual and triangular meets a strong St. Xavier squad was dumped, and Central and Walnut were drowned with thirty points to spare. While Walnut, Woodward, and Withrow were splashing for second place, West High took its initial quadrangular meet by twenty points. In the next meet against Hughes, Taft, and Walnut, the margin of victory increased. In an upstate trip to the Bowling Green Relays West High was beaten by a few scant points by the champion of Ohio, Canton McKinley, and by the champion of Michigan, Monroe High. Once more in Cincinnati, for the three city Public High meets, West High sank the other member schools by almost a seventy point spread. In the Southwestern Ohio District Meet West Hi nearly doubled the score of the closest of the ten other entries. In the state meet against the best swimmers in the land, West High took fourth place, a truly great finish for a terrific team and coach.

Heading Coach Jim Heinold's powerpacked Mustangs were Buzz Dalton and Chip Faison. Buzz was undefeated during the entire season in the hundred yard breaststroke and currently holds the state record in his event. Chip, in a crosstown "battle" with Keith Dimond of Woodward cracked the district record in the one hundred yard butterfly and nearly broke the record in the individual medley. He garnered nine big points in the state meet in these two events. Also taking points in the state meet was our medley relay team, consisting of Dalton, Red Sparenberg, Don Rau, and Captain Bob Panuska. Members scoring in the District Meet were Vern Platt, Stu Vendeland, Joe Weber, Ron Daeumler, Doug Hissong, Al Caskill, and Rick Morris. Others include Mike Lalosh, Max Chastain, and Bob Francis. It was a great season for the boys of our energetic team.

Varsity Basketball

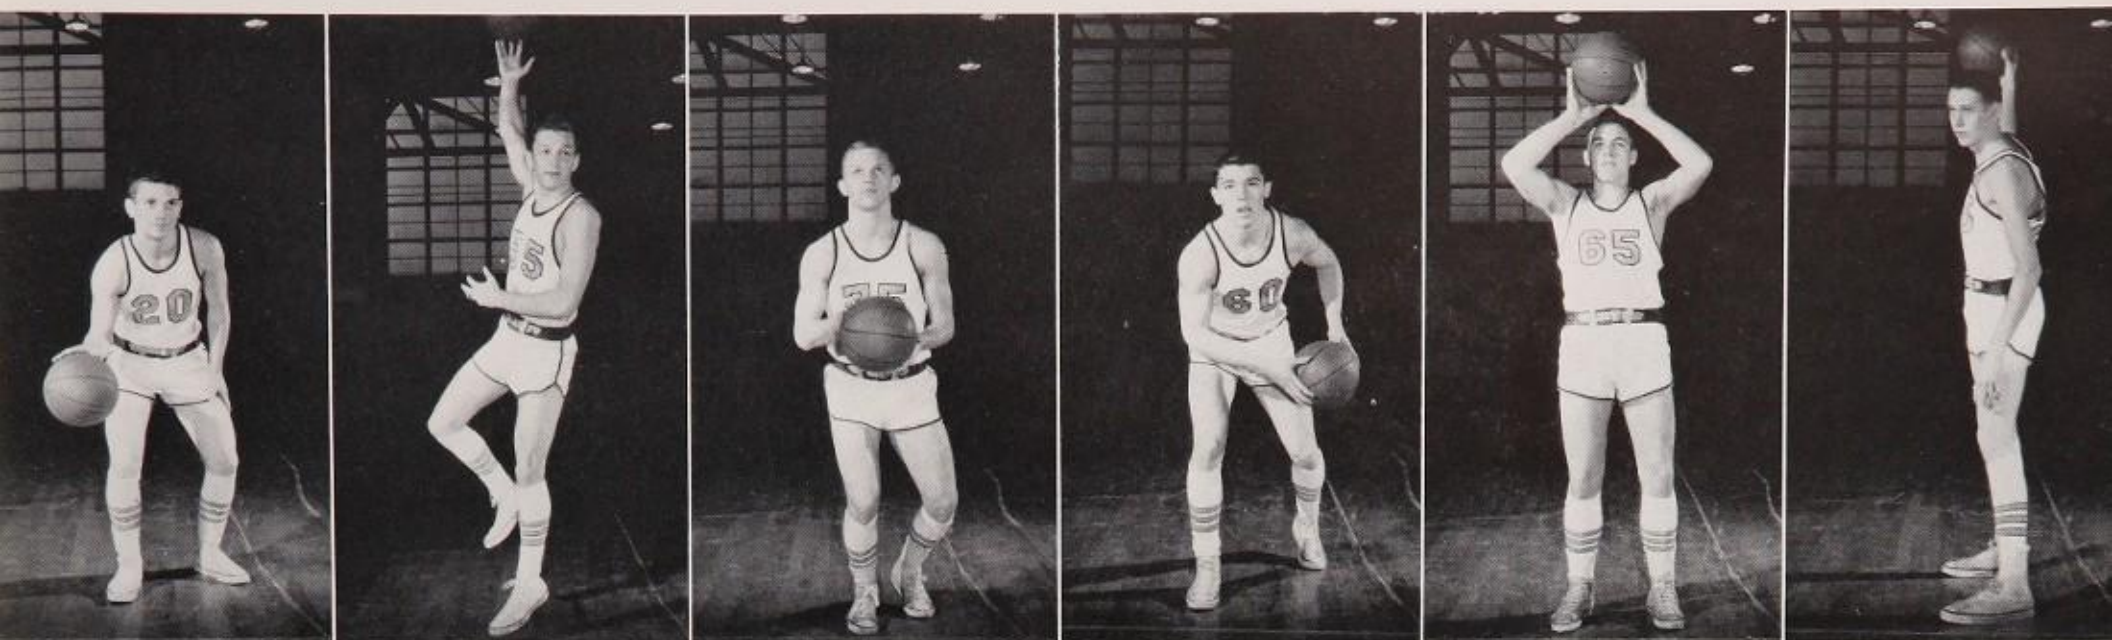

Nothing but gloom, gloom, and more gloom appeared on the basketball horizon for West Hi this year. With only two returning lettermen, Jim Lemen and Gene Wood, the team had a rugged time. The combined and willing efforts of Charles Schott, Bob Yearout, Marty McMullen, Ralph Griesser, and Jerry Bovard weren't enough to pull the team out of the doldrums. Nevertheless, the enthusiasm and drive which the Mustangs put forth ranked the squad along with West Hi's past teams.

The chief weakness of the basketball team has not been in lack of ability or team work but in the height department. No member of the squad was taller than 6' 3", and the boys met with dismal defeat in their rebounding efforts. Next year, however, with taller sophomores and juniors ready for the varsity, West High's hopes for a strong team will materialize.

The team's leading scorer, Gene Wood, finished the season with a first-rate average of 15 points per game. "Woody" and the rest of the team battled hardest the strong schools; namely, Taft, PHSL champions; Elder, our chief rivals; and Hamilton, a powerful county foe; but only in a losing effort.

Reserve Basketball

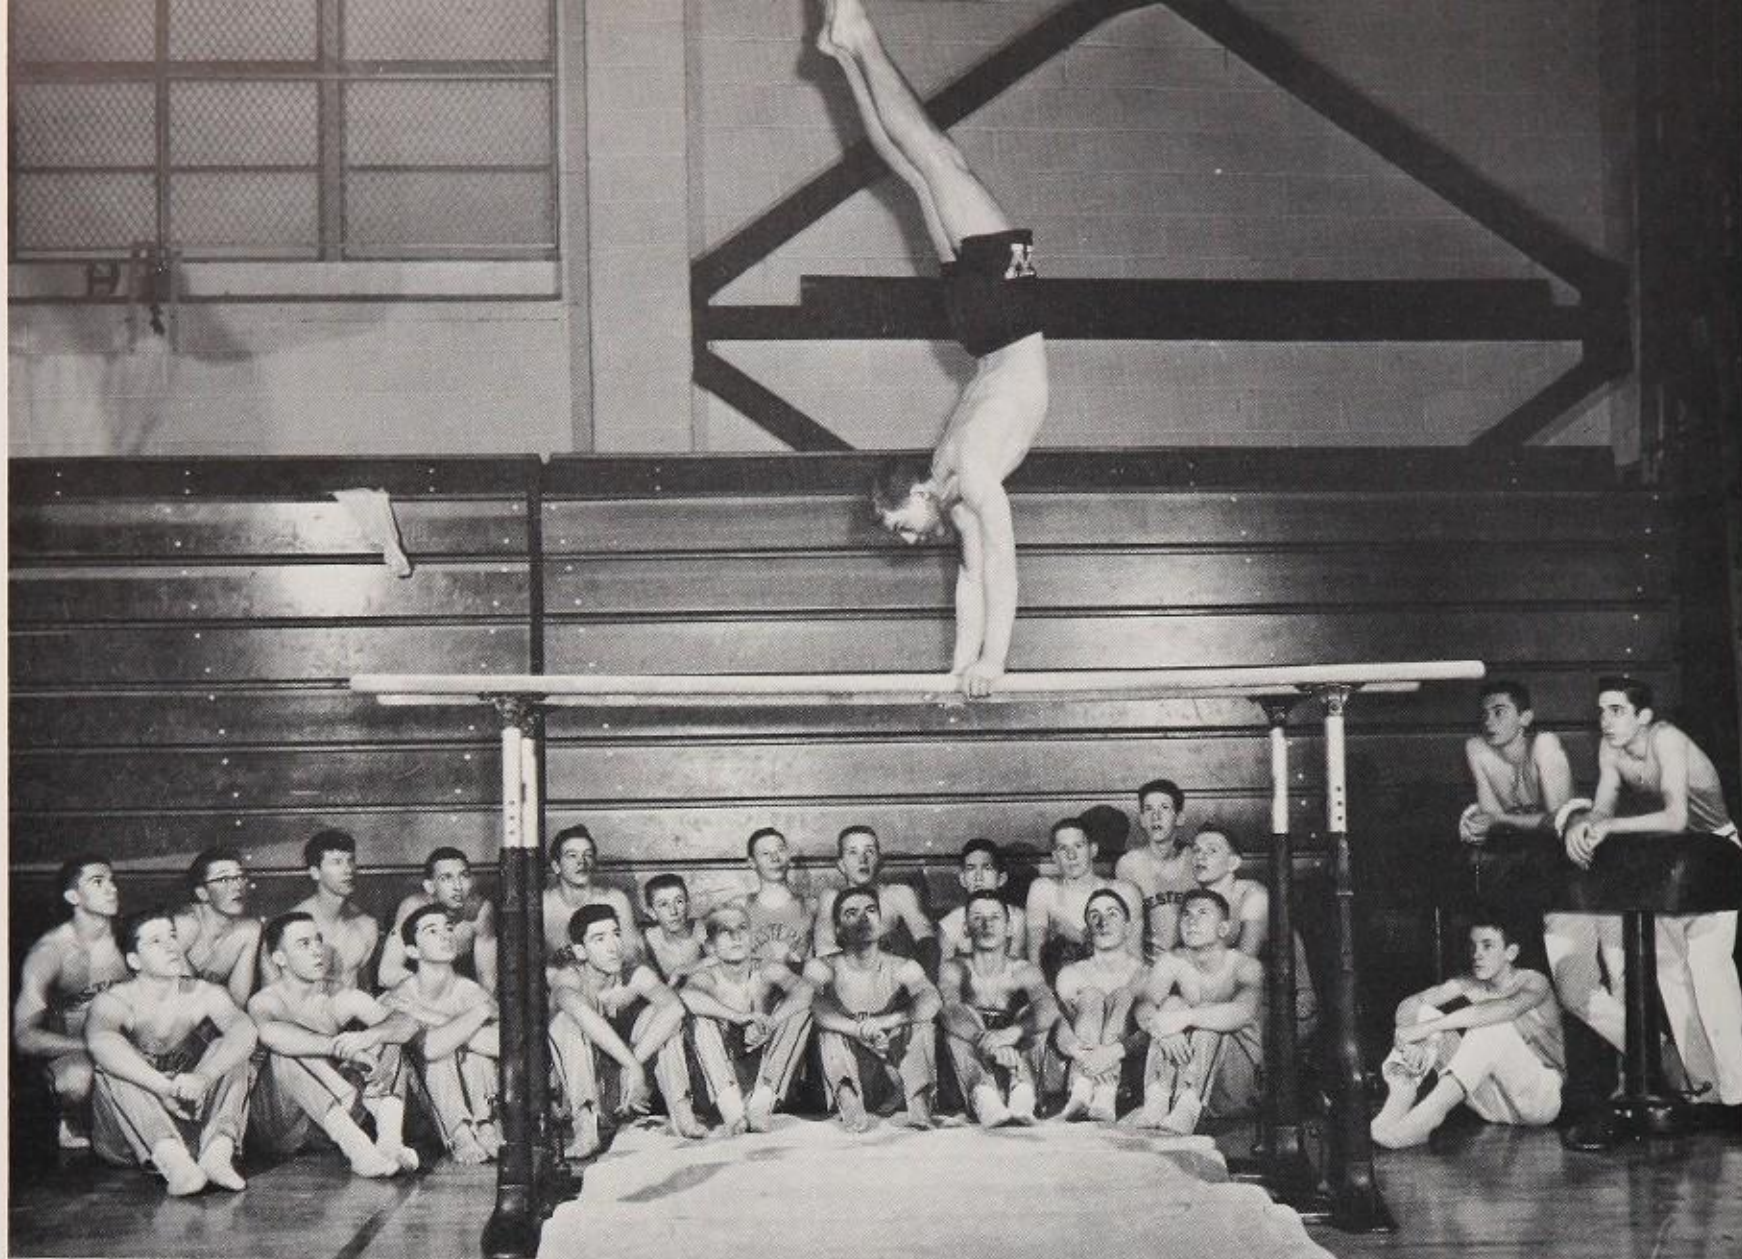

The Reserve Basketball team crashed the varsity's record, finishing with a 10 won — 8 lost season. Lead by Jerry Paner, Murle Paxson Wayne Lundy, and Tom Maddux, the Jr. Mustangs exhibited impressive qualities; and fans' hopes rose for an improved varsity next year. In two games, against powerful Taft and Central, the Reserve team had better than a 75% average from the charity line and soundly trounced both schools. In the Central game, sophomore center, Wayne Lundy hit for 24 points which was well above any other single performance this year. West Hi swamped Withrow by 32 points in a high scorer, 70 - 38. Toward the end of the season, the Mustangs had two one point decisions, winning one and losing the last encounter of the season to our arch-rival, Elder.

The members of the varsity and reserve gym teams look on with admiration as William Anderson performs a handstand on the parallel bars.

Gymnastics

The Western Hills gymnasts came up with their finest showing in eight years, as the team captured third place in city competition. Among the outstanding boys who brought home the honors were Lou Pavloff, Bill Anderson, Tom Moore, and Don Kanet. This year a record number of boys showed up for gym team practices and try-outs. Since interest in gymnastic activities has been mounting, the team is assured a bright future.

Bowling

Western Hills this year has been exceedingly strong in the "so-called" minor sports and bowling is no exception. For the first time in two years the Maroon Mustangs are again in control of the PHSL. The West Hi five captured the league record by bowling better than a 1050 game series. Several of the team members bowled totals of 600 or more including, Chuck Meyer, Dave Lange, Mike Money and Tom Bonfield.

Golf

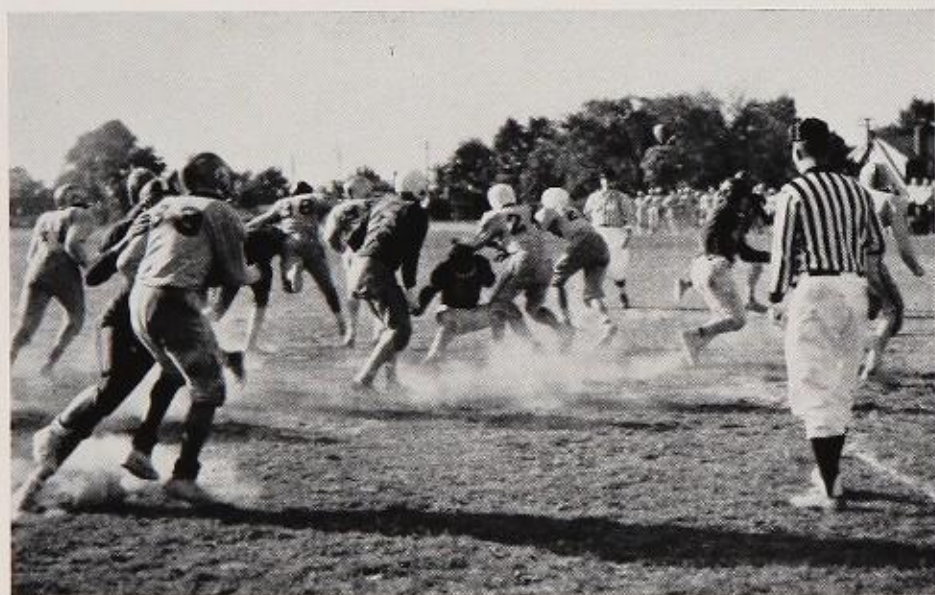

This year's golf team had two returning boys, Bob Francis and Gary Pies. The team was coached by Mr. Love, whose main goal as coach was to encourage in boys an interest in golf and to help them develop an enthusiasm for the game. No boys were cut from the team and all were given an opportunity to practice and learn the game. Mr. Love believed that this was most important. The four leading scorers were assigned to be the starters. The remainder of the boys composed the reserve squad. Matches were held with Walnut, April 21st; Hughes, April 28th; Withrow, May 5th; and Woodward, May 12th. The state meet was held in Columbus. All and all, bad weather and stiff competition provided quite a challenge.

"How's this for form," says B. Francis to Coach Love.

The junior high cagers, coached by Woody Singerman, had a good season, placing third out of eight teams in the PHSL competition.

Fighting their way through a cloud of dirt and dust, the junior high Mustangs discover that the opposing team is not their only obstacle.

Junior High Teams

The junior high teams rank as high in importance as do the senior high teams, although many times they are lost in the shadows of our varsity clubs. The real importance of the junior high teams is to interest and to acquaint young boys with sports. In going out for a team the boys find out how much fun it is to participate in a sport. The majority of the boys who are now playing on the varsity squads had their starts on the junior high clubs. Another important thing that junior high teams do is to teach each boy sportsmanship and teamwork. By playing with a team the boys learn to get along with a group and to act as a unit. They also develop respect for others and the quality of fair play. In participating in a sport, the boys learn to be gracious losers as well as modest winners. Last of all the boys are able to concentrate their energies on something that is constructive as well as fun. The junior high Mustangs have a variety of sports in which they may participate, including basketball, swimming, football, cross country, and track. With these opportunities a junior high boy has a good chance to participate in sports.

Maroon W

The tradition of Maroon W, the honoring of the athletic letter winners, took great strides this year. Under the leadership of their president, Ken Conatser, and their faculty advisor, Mr. Nead, the members put on a campaign to increase the honor and recognition received by the club. In order to do this, Friday was declared letter-sweater day and all the members were to wear their letter-sweaters all day at school. Another project to increase the recognition of members was the buying of Maroon W jackets. Through these projects the fellowship of a group of athletes, honored by their school for their participation in various sports, was greatly multiplied. The members also sponsored a bake sale, a canteen, and their annual Dream of Maroon and Cream Dance at which Pat Tygrett was voted queen. They ended the year with a gala outing at Coney.

A few of the members try their skill at the Coney Island outing.

Coach Kappes Leaves

The date is June 1946. The place is the lunch room of Western Hills High School. The event is the annual all sports banquet. Bob Kappes has just been presented the all-around boy award. He has earned this award by his participation and achievement in many school activities. He was president of his junior and senior classes, varsity football captain, a member of the all city and south all-state football teams, and an honor student.

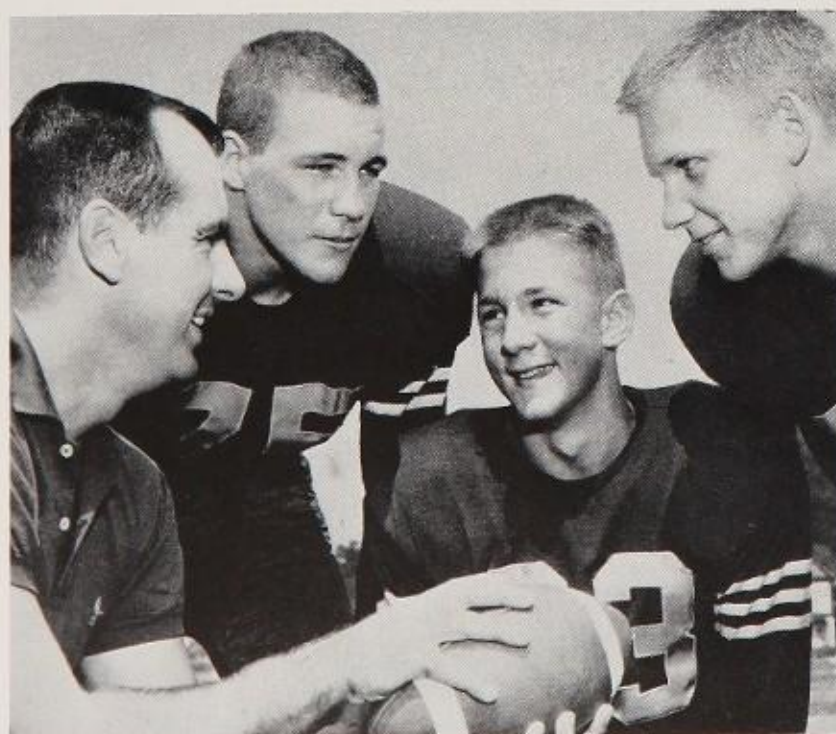

Then in 1946 he enters Miami University to study teaching. Again his ability as a leader and football player repeats itself. He earns four varsity letters in football, an accomplishment seldom achieved, and is elected Senior Class President.

In the fall of 1950 we find Mr. Kappes back at West Hi as a math teacher and head football coach. On the field he not only teaches the fundamentals and spirit of football, but he also stresses the importance of sportsmanship and of being a "tough gentleman" on as well as off the field. In 1956 his greatest thrill as a coach comes as he leads the team to a 9 and 1 record, the PHSL Championship, and by beating Elder, the Mythical City Championship.

Now in 1958 he again leaves these familiar halls of Western Hills to join the coaching staff of Ohio University. The faculty and the whole student body of West Hi join in wishing good luck and success to Mr. Kappes.

In 1950, his first year at West Hi, Kap is carried off the field.

Sports A' La Femme

Under the guidance and instruction of Mrs. Cook, Mrs. Koster, and Miss Witte, the gym department has kept pace with the expanding and changing needs of the girls. Miss Witte, sponsor of Senior GAA, constantly offers to the members her support and advice, while Mrs. Koster coaches those interested in baseball and instructs classes in gym and swimming. Mrs. Cook is in charge of the girls in the junior division and is continually besieged by their many questions and requests for guidance.

Introducing GAA

"Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! We play at 3:10 sharp and we can't be late!" What a familiar cry this is as the G.A.A. members rush to participate in their favorite sport. Yes, for 350 athletic minded girls the three o'clock bell sounds the end of studying and the beginning of fun and companionship in G.A.A. From hockey in the fall to baseball in the spring, girls spend many after-school hours in the gym, swimming pool, or on play field enjoying one sport or another. Much credit must be given to the sports managers and board who are responsible for planning the activities of GAA.

In a mad scramble the Jr. Hi girls prepare for a game.

Shoot! Shoot! The goal is in sight and so is the goalie, but nothing can stop our advanced hockey team in their search for excitement.

Hockey is Fun

The tension mounts with each passing second! Every eye is glued to the umpire. Every ear is turned to hear the whistle. Then it comes, that loud shrill sound that signifies the start of a girls' hockey game. The laughter and shouts of encouragement, the yells and shrieks as a goal is made, all combine to make the game exciting. Even the bruises and sore muscles are fun, for the girls know that their capable sponsor, Mrs. Cook, is there to nurse their injuries. All this, plus the knowledge acquired after several years of playing, helps to form the advanced team which this year climaxed its season by traveling to Oxford for a rousing game with Talawanda High.

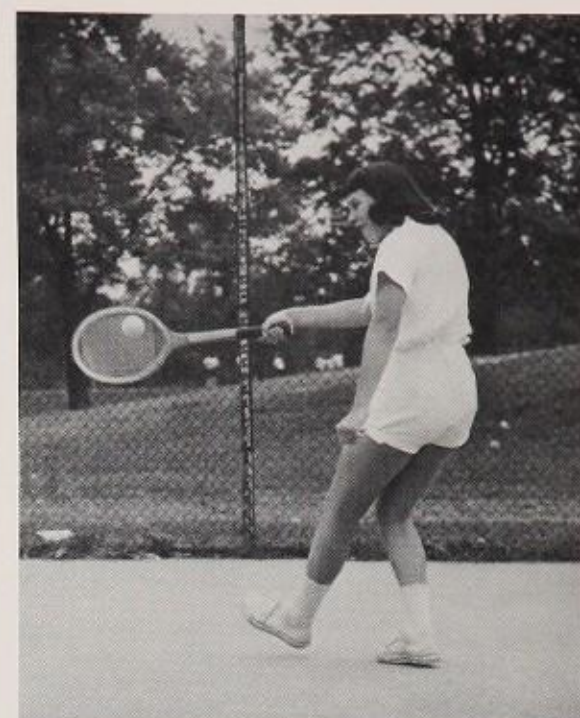

Executing her prize serve is C. Weiss.

M. White tries for her backhand shot.

M. Adler: swinging style, successful.

SPRING—? SPORTS are given a rousing welcome by a clash of thunder and the flash of lightning. While the rain falls outside, inside the girls gather enthusiasm. It is then that gym equipment such as bucks and mats is brought out and everyone exercises lazy muscles. During these exercise sessions one is apt to see a group of girls enjoying a leapfrog game or practicing diving on the mats. That these exercises tone up lazy muscles, is a proven fact when one hears the girls the next day moaning and groaning about sore stomach, legs and arms!

When sunny days appear the inside equipment is put away and the gym doors are once again flung open to fresh-air and, weather permitting, every young girl's fancy turns to spring sports.

Over she comes! J. Johnson does a straddle jump.

Aiming for a hit are S. Conover, M. Cahall, and D. Steel.

Water Plus Fun Equals Swimming

Ever since the opening of Western Hills in 1928, swimming has been an important part of the girls' sports program. The methods of teaching and the interest in learning have grown with each year. Passing from the pink beginners' cap to the green and then yellow intermediate caps, and finally attaining the coveted blue and white caps, the girls go through all phases of swimming, from floating to synchronized swimming and diving.

For those girls who become proficient in swimming there is the Girls' Life Saving Corps. The corps was founded in 1928 and since that time has rapidly increased in popularity and importance. The task of the members of the corps is to plan city and class meets and the synchronized swimming programs and to help conduct the life-saving classes. Sink or swim has become the motto at West Hi — no one dares sink!

Elaine watches intently as she times Ginny's racing backstroke.

Posing with Elaine Kettlehut, the swimming manager, is the G.A.A. lifesaving corps: S. Myers, J. Currie, V. Vornheder, K. Lundin, D. Brater, B. Kaemmerle, M. Heidrich, A. Seidler, E. Kettlehut, A. Patton, P. Heisel, B. Tuerck, T. Warburg.

Here they come! Running up the steps, eager to start an exciting game with Wyoming, are the advanced basketball team members: C. Gudgeon, M. Adler, M. White, B. Kaemmerle, T. Warburg, D. Brater, A. Patton, C. Bauer, B. Tuerck, B. Ivey.

ROUNDBALL is what the boys call it; the girls prefer to call it basketball — the same game but different rules, the same enthusiasm but different people. During the winter months the courts were filled with girls every Wednesday and Thursday and were seldom cleared before five o'clock. Climaxing the 1958 basketball season was the basketball supper which honored the new manager and advanced team.

"Make that basket!" yell advanced team members J. Sprague, M. Poli, J. Tuertscher, and J. Newman.

Hoping to retrieve the ball are K. Bailey, M. Cahall, J. Bockhorst, L. Fletcher.

Cold Outside-Fun Inside

"Spike it! Get that ball over! Yea, we've got another point!" These familiar cries echoed by enthusiastic girls set the stage for a rousing game of volleyball. Behind what seems to be a mass of confusion and girls fighting for the one poor little ball is a well-organized group of players who form a team. This team must learn to pass the ball from player to player until it is hit over the net successfully, for the main idea of the game is to get the ball, not the girls, over the net. Thoughts of the playday and advanced team keep every girl on her toes to do her best. With such lively players anything can and certainly does happen.

Excitement, energy, and encouragement spur J. Blockhorst, J. Sieger, L. Fletcher, T. Harsham, and L. Kohl on.

"Come on Rita! One more point and we'll win," say Miss Fisher, Mrs. Lewis, and the team to R. Wohlwender.

New technique, old rules form indoor baseball.

It's Baseball Time

"Rain, rain, go away" is the theme song at first of all girls who go out for baseball. Every baseball afternoon it seems to rain. This problem's only solution is indoor baseball, at which the girls are experts. Of course playing on miniature courts and using a soccer ball for a bat is not as much fun but . . .

When sunny days return the ball and bats reappear and happy baseball days proceed, now with the theme song "Take me out to the ball game."

Another Cheer for a Successful Year

Monday through Friday, September through June, the activities of GAA have carried on. With eyes toward their future GAA girls have experienced fun in their games and have achieved skill in their practice. They have acquired qualities which will remain perpetual in their personalities just as GAA will remain constant in the development of sound and true minds.

Batter up, pitcher down, umpire alert, and the game moves into full swing.

Run, run! Faster, faster! You're passed first; try for second. This point may tie up the game.

Snappy personalities are shown on the faces of these S.A.B. officers: J. Cole, Secretary; K. Conatser, President; B. Richardson, Vice President; J. Oester, Treasurer.

S.A.B.'s close brotherhood shows in their motto "All for One, One for All" which is evident in their sincere friendships. As a group their accomplishments have been numerous. Because of the fellows' good support in their activities, S.A.B. has been able to boast success in hay-rides, closed parties, semi-formal dances and the long-looked-for outing. The members are also proud to say that their President, Ken Conatser was crowned Mr. Western Hills.

Clowning around, Jim Hensley produces laughter from his frat brothers J. Mulholland, M. Loew, B. McCurdy, H. Coleman, F. Sandman, B. Hayes, R. Bond.

TAUSIA

The last refrains of a favorite song These Tausia years go by so quickly echoed in the ears of every Tausia girl as she left the "Wigwam" following the May banquet. All of the gay activities of the past year flashed across her mind, the June outing, the noisy hayrides in the rain, rush parties, the Wishbone Whirl, the Christmas formal, slumber parties, the square dance and the mothers tea. Yes, this truly had been a year to be remembered forever.

"Why Carol," exclaim this year's officers, "that's a wonderful idea." Discussing the projects are B. Kaemmerle, Vice President; A. Seidler, Secretary; C. Traut, President; J. Richardson, Sergeant-at-arms; N. Gieringer, Pledge Mistress; P. Tygrett, Chaplain; J. Currie, Treasurer.

Seriousness as well as fun are a part of every Tausia's life. FIRST ROW: B. Ziegler, J. Currie, M. Theilman, S. Kruse, S. Hopping, E. Seyferth, J. Richardson. SECOND ROW: J. Bunker, B. Kaemmerle, G. Schroth, C. Traut, B. Fosco, M. White, C. Bertsche. THIRD ROW: N. Gieringer, G. Vieth, P. Tygrett, S. Craycraft, A. Seidler, G. Lenhoff.

FIRST ROW: K. Wall, S. Schwartz, T. Sillman, P. Perkins, B. Ivey. SECOND ROW: C. Mayleben, J. Mager, P. Liggett, P. Orleman, M. Chinn, J. Horton, B. Ivey. THIRD ROW: C. Kinker, J. Bloebaum, P. Waldron, M. Colburn, B. Hoffman, L. Kespohl, B. Smith.

Glowing with excitement, and anticipating fun, the Juniors are ready for a rip-roaring time.

KYTYVES

Looking in on a Kytyves meeting we find the girls reminiscing over their fun-packed year. Their vivacious chatter covers everything imaginable — the "Wishbone Whirl" which was a big date for all concerned, the Christmas formal which had been so greatly anticipated, and the hayrides and slumber parties. There were other gay get-togethers, but most of all Kytyves girls glow with pride over Carole Brown, star of the Senior Class Play, who was also West High's nominee for City Mayor.

Activity is still in the air as the officers relax in the kitchen after their meeting. LEFT: S. Moore, Vice President; C. Brown, Corresponding Secretary; B. Sandusky, Sargent-of-arms. RIGHT: J. Potts, Treasurer; P. Poppe, Secretary; and L. Vonlehmnden, President.

Their motto Together We Are One is carried in the heart of every Kytyves gal. L. Buchenburger, L. Wenger, D. Tihinghaust, J. Whisman, C. Brown, S. Moore (sitting); P. Pooppe, B. Sandusky, L. Vonlehmnden, J. Potts, J. Batchelor (standing).

SPARKETTS

*S — She wears an S for her sincerity
P — She wears a P for her personality
A — She wears an A for always on the job
R — She wears an R for reality, reality
K — She wears a K for good old Kindness
E — She wears an E for etiquette for etiquette
TT — She wears a TT for truthfulness*

You can bet she's a real Sparkette. Hearing their voices blend together, one realizes that these girls have formed more than a sorority; they have developed close friendships. Among their activities were the Christmas formal, skating parties, banquet and outings.

Is this just a gab-session or are some of these girls seriously trying to work? R. Marshall, (center), E. Zimmer, P. Barthalemeu, D. Black, C. Miller, V. Seusser, G. Fette, J. Meyferth, S. McMillian (seated in back).

Giving the photographer their prettiest smiles are D. Black, V. Seusser, P. Barthalomeu, G. Fette, E. Zimmer, J. Meyferth, officers of Sparkettes.

Singing good-night to their new members are G. Fette, E. Zimmer, D. Black, J. Meyferth, V. Seusser, P. Barthalomeu. Listening with enjoyment are their new members S. McMillian, R. Marshall, C. Miller.

T. O. Officers

TRIGINTA OPTIMI

Wherever T.O. meets one may hear their song: Triginta Optimi, dearest fraternity, long may our brothers be, true to thy loyalty. Choosing Jim Lemen as their President, the T.O.'s formed many lasting friendships. Sponsoring an October and January dance the boys also found time to throw a New Year's Eve Party to welcome the New Year in. A well rounded social program with fun galore kept life exciting for members of '58.

"Jingle bells, jingle bells, jingle all the way" sing M. Bauer, S. Gieringer, H. Lepple, B. Keller, C. Helle, B. Bizzari, C. Forster. SECOND ROW: M. Mangan, B. Brueggemann, C. Siler, M. Haft, D. Hartig, C. York, K. Ott.

PI DELTA PHI

The yellow rose and diamond-shaped black and gold pin, symbolizing Pidel, have been carried in the hearts of girls for twenty-eight years. This year's Pidel group cherishes memories not too different from those of past members. There were the gala hayrides, the semi-formal dances, the Christmas party for the needy, the exquisite formal, the jolly outing and the never-to-be-forgotten banquet. Remembering all this happiness and the joys of lifelong friendships that were made, girls know the joys of being a Pidel.

"All set, ready now, let's go!" STANDING FOREGROUND: D. Backer, C. Ensminger. FIRST ROW SITTING: C. Kamp, D. Steel, J. Remle, C. Corcoran, S. Hendon, M. Wondrack, J. Guilar, J. Miller. THETA ALPHA PI

*Whom do we love and whom do we honor?
Why dear old Theta Alpha Pi.*

The girls of T.A.P. are sisters in every way, in work and fun. Their various activities this year included rushing, serenading and pledging in the fall, and ice skating, dancing, and caroling at Christmas. When spring came the girls were busy planning for the May banquet and election of the new officers. The last day of school found T.A.P.'s aglow with plans for Chataugua.

SOPHOMORES: C. Price, J. Ramsey, J. Claypoole, J. Abel, M. Moellenkamp, (sitting): C. Reddert, B. Suggs, (right standing): J. Laub, S. Mason, D. Glenn, L. Miller.

CHI OMEGA SIGMA

"See you tonight at fraternity meeting" is a familiar parting word to a Chi Omega Sigma on Thursday night. A very active fraternity, C.O.S. has completed several charity projects; which included giving a party for the unfortunate youngsters, filling a Thanksgiving basket and sponsoring a basketball game with T.O. for the benefit of the Muscular Dystrophy Drive. The dances "Autumn Ambush" and the annual C.O.S. Sweetheart Dance at which Barbara Tuerck was crowned Sweetheart for '58" were counted among the highlights for the year. The successful year of close friendships ended with a banquet attended by alums.

Ping ... Ping ... Ping ... "Come on fellows, just one more point." Watching are B. Steward, J. Russell, S. McNamee, D. Beechuck, R. Stayin, D. Staubity, G. Wollenhaupt, J. Brockhoff, E. Webb, B. Hendon, R. Flender.

Being initiated are D. Hay, D. Heiser, G. Arnold, S. Christo, (kneeling); B. Church, M. Traynor, B. Eggers, L. Dissenger, B. Tuffendsam, J. Miller, D. Zech, J. Walker.

An officers time-out is called while B. Hopping, Vice President; B. Church, President; B. Eggers, Secretary; P. Mazza, Treasurer; smile for the cameraman.

PHI DELTA SIGMA

Taking a glance at the P.D.S. calendar for this year one can tell at short notice that this fraternity is right on the ball. Planning their year with equal fun and work they started working for the Muscular Dystrophy Campaign by selling poppies immediately after the closed hayride. At Christmas and Thanksgiving the P.D.S. boys did their share to help make others happy. Following Christmas, gala plans got underway for the annual Washington Cat Ball, and as usual the boys were able to boast of it as a huge success. Parties, jam sessions, and card games provided further opportunities for fun and left chuckles of glee for remembrances. Highlighting the year's fun, the boys who proudly wear the black and gold had an all day outing.

Comfy and cozy, the seniors forget all about their strict diets. FIRST ROW: M. Russel, J. Immenhort, J. Immenhort, J. Horbert, D. Klemme, D. King, B. Gahn, C. Studt. SECOND ROW: S. Haskell, B. Nieman, J. Kruse, E. Traub, N. Redman, C. Wells, S. Allen, J. Tiffany, S. Fischbach, M. Poli.

"Opps, I almost fell!" Skating sophomores: D. Klamme, B. Highfell, P. Knosp, C. Schnieder, J. Ireland, J. Sieger, B. McNeth, J. Akenbauer, D. Sparks, M. Cave, M. Calder, J. Ottinger, M. Pons, L. Kellerman, H. Fischbach, L. Knabe.

SUB DEB CLUB

Proud of being a Sub Deb? You bet! This year the Sub Deb gals really had their share of fun. Hayrides, dances, formals, slumber and swimming parties, banquets, and outings were events that loaded the year with good times for all. Bobbie Nieman and Susan Allen, led the sorority as president and vice-president.

Pretty girls, pretty smiles, pretty surroundings aptly describe the Sub Deb juniors' swimming party. FIRST ROW: J. Dunhoff, J. Harris, K. Thompson, S. Ferguson. SECOND ROW: S. Conover, N. Franks, L. Fletcher, J. Tashjian, M. Sutter, C. Bauer, M. Heidrich, J. Kestner, J. Sears, K. Allen, C. Herbst.

Inspiring hymns are sung by members of the Bible Club in an early morning Christmas devotion. The singers are J. Schneller, S. Sandman, D. Smith, D. Brendlinger, R. Floischmann, D. Cook, C. Ries, N. Hassert, B. Jones, and M. Harmon.

Bible Club

The purposes of Bible Club are to spread the gospel, to develop leaders, and to practice Christian fellowship. Throughout the school year these goals were carried out in a number of different ways. Sponsoring bake sales, putting out a club newspaper, and planing skits and movies helped build leadership ability. The opportunity to enjoy Christian fellowship was made available through daily meetings and a Youth for Christ Rally. Most important to the members was their support of a Korean Orphan.

Y-Teens and HI-Y

Christian growth, fun, and fellowship are trademarks of Senior Y-Teens. Together the girls enjoy various activities such as weekly business meetings on Monday afternoons, movies or slides on Tuesday evenings, caroling with Hi-Y at Christmas and the city wide potato chip sale in the spring. These form the firm background of a worthwhile organization.

Combine varied athletic activities, Christian fellowship, Tuesday evening meetings and all around fun, and the results will be Alpha Hi-Y. Hi-Y is aware of the importance of team work and good sportsmanship which are practiced in basketball, football and baseball. Also at Thanksgiving time Y-Teens and Hi-Y plan and print programs for the traditional game.

The officers of Senior Hi-Y and Y-Teens blend their voices in Christmas Carols.

Delicious cookies, yummy fudge, attractive tea table, charming hostesses — Mrs. Postle must be pleased with her pupils' Christmas tea.

Junior Hi Daze

The excitement of first dates, the whirl of dances and parties, the fun of picnics and hayrides begin to unfold for boys and girls entering junior high school. Though social activities are limited to one or two dances in the seventh and eighth grade, in the ninth grade pupils find a wide variety of activities in which they may take part. Truly junior high is a stepping stone to the Golden Years of senior high.

Anticipating a wonderful time at the Hi-Y and Y-Teens picnic are the officers: Carol McIlwain, Betty Martin, Paul Tyndull, and Pat Lunsford.

"Time out for a coke," agree S. Browning, J. Dalbert, B. Stout, S. Schiff, B. Patterson, and B. Longhauser.

Does this layout look all right to you? This frequently met problem is being carefully considered by the editors of the junior high page of the Breeze: A. Boyll, B. Walden, I. O'Connor, B. Piatt, J. Braden, P. Baldwin, and I. Kock.

Junior High Sparkles With Energy And Cheer

"Yea team! Fight, fight, fight!" The junior high cheerleaders go into action.

A lively discussion on France is led by Miss Tebbenhoff. Interested French Clubbers are S. Fischbach, S. Herzner, H. Benjamin, P. Graf, N. Bonfield, J. Shinkle. STANDING: M. Russell, and K. LaFortune.

Jr. Council On World Affairs

The Jr. Council On World Affairs strives to create an interest in the peoples and affairs of other nations. A number of speakers addressed the group bringing first-hand information on world problems. At the beginning of the year a young man from Jordan painted a picture of the conditions in the Middle East. Later, a speaker from Hungary explained the situation in his country. The Navy also presented an interesting program about nuclear powers. Through these speakers and other informative programs, the club members gained a look at our complicated world. Also on the club's busy agenda was raising money to help support UNICEF, United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.

"Oh, I just lost count!" is a familiar wail as T. Markem, P. Piatt, S. Todorovich, W. Radcliff, Mr. Hess, J. Seybert, E. Muschick, and D. Pucket busily count stamps.

French Club

Bonjour, messieur . . . The Eiffel Tower, a sidewalk cafe? No, not really. It's just one of the monthly meetings of West High's French Club. Through the movies and discussions at these meetings the members of the Club learn more about the customs of France and gain more enjoyment from their school-time study of French. Other club activities such as translating and planning French menus, practicing conversation, and ordering and enjoying a continental meal at a French restaurant create a greater interest in the language and reveal the practical value of its study. French Club, indeed, spans the miles between France and our country and makes the study of French in school much more meaningful.

Other Chess Club members eagerly crowd around to watch a hardfought battle between Ken Eger and Dennis Spencer.

Chess Club

Chess? Yes—so say the members of West High's Chess Club, and they definitely have the right to speak on the subject since, in competition with other schools, they have not lost a match in three years. Featured on the School page of the Cincinnati Post this year, members of West High's chess squad put forth the theory that this ancient game can be a great way of developing a scientific mind. The reason is clearly pointed out as one boy states, "You set down facts, determine new ones, form a working theory, measure it, test it and come to a conclusion."

Rifle Club

Rifle Club provides an enjoyable hobby for those interested in marksmanship. The boys who belong to Rifle Club meet once a week at the Western Hills Y.M.C.A. They use 22 caliber target rifles to shoot at small bore targets fifty feet away. Since this was their first year at Western Hills the membership was comparatively small. If by next year there are enough boys in the club, it will join the National Rifle Association. This will enable the members to compete against independent rifle clubs or organizations from other schools.

A good shot of three good shots finds Dick Hoeffler, Dave Kiewit, and Keith Koerber practicing, while Mr. Hopping watches.

On their way to spread Christmas cheer are future teachers, S. Fischbach, B. Nieman, C. Knosp, and S. Kruse.

Future Teachers Club

To interest young people in teaching as a career is the purpose of Future Teachers Club. By observing in grade school classrooms FHC members discover the many problems and different experiences that teachers encounter. By means of speakers and movies the future teachers learn about the various levels and special fields of teaching. The group also meets with clubs from other schools to exchange ideas and information. Through these and other numerous activities Future Teachers Club thoroughly acquaints its members with every phase of teaching.

Debate Team

Do you like to talk, or have a good argument now and then? Well, if you do, the debate team is just the thing for you. On the team, clear and cool-headed arguments are stressed. A good team member develops the ability to answer questions calmly, which are fired at him fast and furiously. A debator learns much about current events and world affairs, and he is exposed to the pros and con of all arguments. Debate is a valuable hobby, and the experience acquired can easily be applied to every day living.

At an informal practice session the debate team attentively listens to and gives their appraisals of John Seybert's speech.

The officers of Business Club are admiring their new Christmas wrapping paper.

Business Club

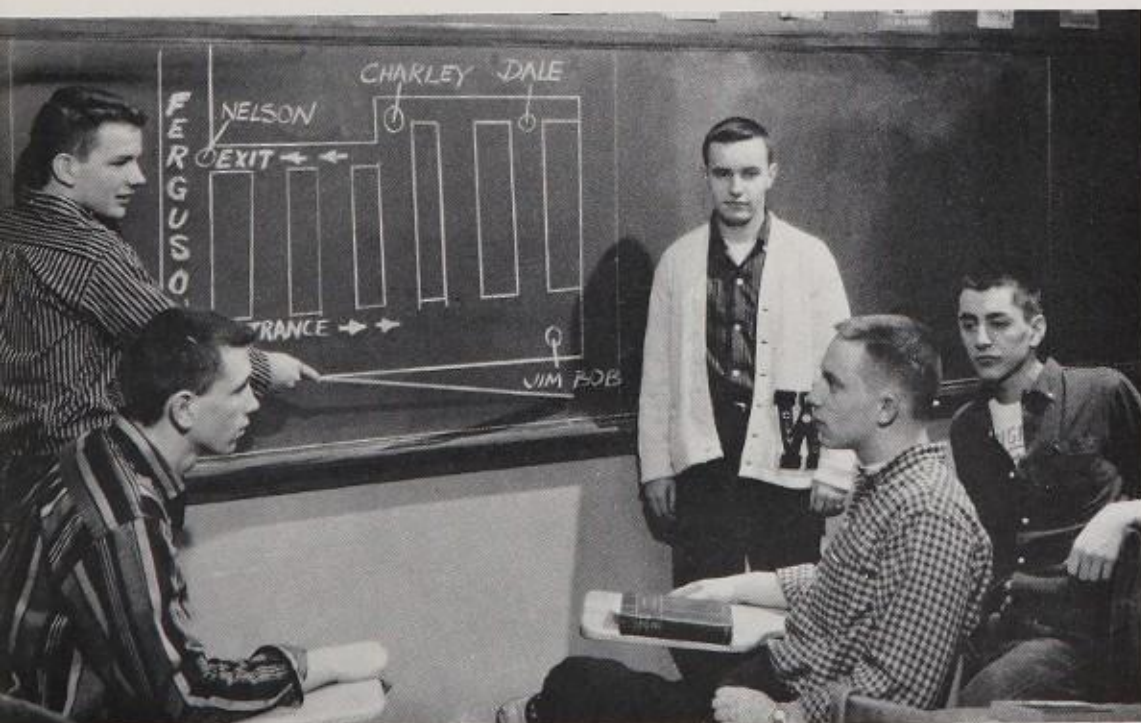

To promote co-operation among the business students is the aim of Business Club. The numerous members are brought together by the variety of activities which Business Club offers. A canteen, a Christmas party, a May picnic, and various tours were the high-lights of a busy year.

Pep Club

"Have 'ya got that spirit? Yea man!" That's what you'll hear from any member of Pep Club at every game and pep assembly. This group, organized to promote school spirit, has been doing a great job backing the team and sending a wave of school spirit and good sportsmanship throughout Western Hills.

Hep up, pep up, step up—sign up for Pep Club. Waiting to take down your name are officers Barb Speer, Billie Kaemmerle, Carol Traut, and Cathy Kamp.

Parking Lot Club

Having attendants where they are needed—that is the strategy of the parking lot club for a busy night. This new club consists of a group of senior boys that have joined together for the sole purpose of assisting parents who are unfamiliar with the school lot.

"Direct cars into the north drive and out south Drive," Chas Haft instructs his parking lot crew.

After the thrilling night of Graduation, a gala day at Coney Island is an annual Western Hills tradition.

Seniors Reach The Peak Of A

The happiest, saddest, busiest, laziest—most important years of our lives have drawn to a close. We are seniors marching with stately steps down the red-carpeted aisle at graduation, as the haunting strains of Pomp and Circumstance echo in our ears. Some of us look back wistfully, hating to realize that these happy, carefree days have now come to a close. Others look ahead to adventure and responsibility in the awaiting world of tomorrow. All recall, however, the happy, profitable, never-to-be-forgotten days at Western Hills—the shared fun and companionship at the Senior Class Roundup, the delicious food and chatter at the Senior Breakfast, and the gala activities of the last group gathering, The Senior Outing. Indeed, each graduating senior has many high school memories with which to reminisce, as friends, laughter, tears, and joys all combine to bring to a close his wonderful, profitable “Golden” lifetime.

“How do I look? Have the flowers come yet?” Last minute thoughts of the Immenhort twins are typical of the tense moments before Graduation.

Golden" Journey

Essay contest winners, J. Schaal, M. Moellering, C. Kuwatch, and T. Warburg, review their scores in the national "Employ the Handicapped Contest."

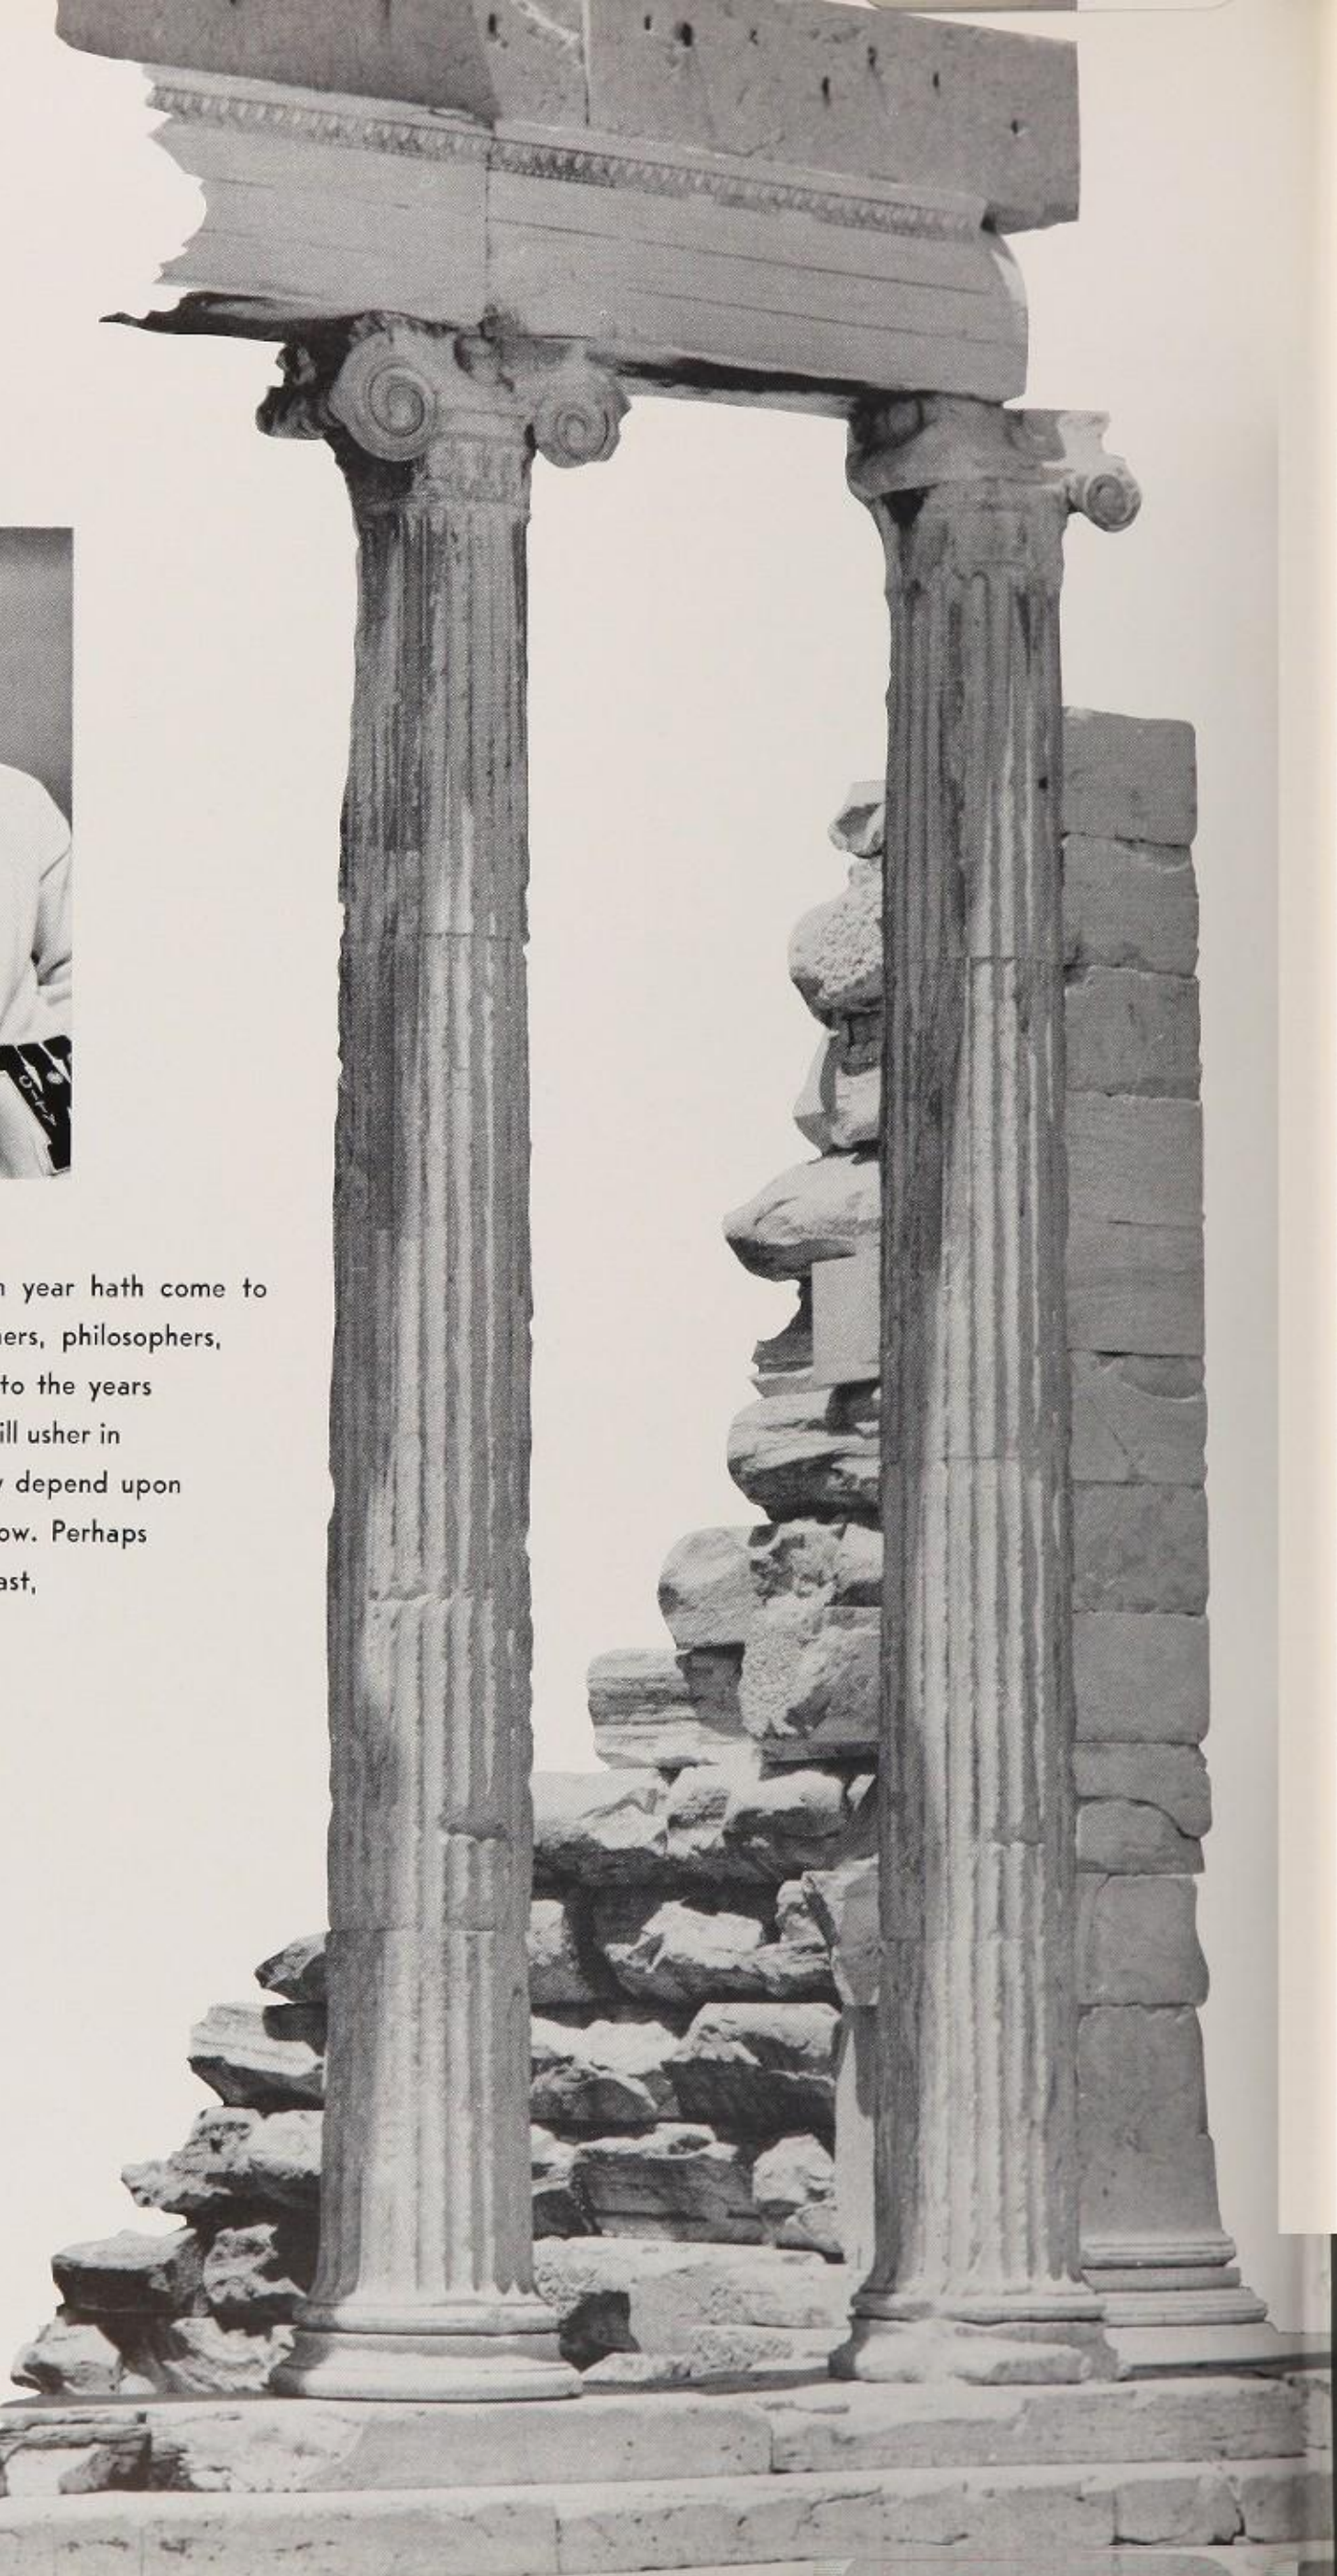

Seniors make plans for the future at a typical college conference.

Memory books of West High graduates will surely include the remembrances of the never-to-be-forgotten event, the annual Senior Outing.

. . . And so the thirtieth golden year hath come to a close and we the future teachers, philosophers, doctors, and lawyers must look into the years that are to come. Whether they will usher in a new and better golden era may depend upon our wisdom as leaders of tomorrow. Perhaps we too, as the Grecians of the past, shall find the hidden answer to the GOLDEN YEARS.

In Memory . . .

Mr. Herman Yung, our beloved teacher, who died March 28, 1958, will long be remembered by the many students and people with whom he worked. He was a devoted husband and father, a respected teacher, and a worthy person in the community. His career at Western Hills encompassed a period of twelve years. His patient and sincere devotion to the welfare of his students will always remain as a symbol of the true teacher.

SUNSET

The sun has gone, but half the western sky
Is ribbon-decked—purple and red and green;
Gay streamers tied to burnished clouds on high,
While over all is cast a golden sheen.
No wonder that we stand and gaze as though
Upon a canvas touched by God; and yet,
Absorbed in beauty of the afterglow,
We do not realize the sun has set.

If only, you and I, when life is done,
Could have our going thus obscured; could hide
Below some bright horizon, like the sun;
If only, when we go, some glorified
Reflection of ourselves would linger on,
Our friends might half forget that we have gone.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Being of slightly shaken minds and fatigue-wracked bodies, we, the staff of '58, do solemnly write our last copy. To show our thanks to the wonderful people who have helped us create this record of The Golden Years we make this last will and testament . . .

To Uncle Russel Benson, for his fine photography and invaluable layout work,—hours and hours of the finest classical music; and to Duncan Scheidt, his assistant,—hours and hours of the swingin'est Dixieland.

To the Hurley Printing Company—line after line of correctly counted captions and copy.

To the Kingsport Press—contract after contract for simple, expensive Annual covers.

To the J&O Engraving Company—two of those little plates engraved with pictures of George Washington and an unlimited supply of green ink.

To Mr. Ficks, our Senior Potrait photographer,—thousands and thousands of people who want their pictures taken.

To our administration and faculty, and especially Mrs. Goodfellow, — whole bunches of smart kids.

To Miss Weber, our wonderful advisor, — bottles and bottles of Bufferin.

To Mr. Love, our financial expert, — season after season of winning golf.

To this we do solemnly affix our mark in this year of Our Lord 1958.

Orlik's

J. R., a distinguished man at Western Hills, offers his advice to Jim as he chooses a sport coat from the great selection at Orlik's Men's Shop. Here they are shown one of the many styles by Mr. Orlik, himself. Needless to say, all the materials stress style, fashion, and fit. For this reason Western Hills men shop here whether they want a sport coat and slacks or a suit. Be important in your crowd — buy your clothes at Orlik's in the Western Hills Plaza, 6156 Glenway.

The Golden Years

For a quarter of a century the old fashioned lad from Indianapolis has been wheeling to Western Hills High School. During these 25 years he has taught approximately 500 boys and girls on the annual staffs the techniques of design, layout, copy continuity and illustrative photography. To him these Golden Years are memorable because the Western Hills Annual always has been judged near perfect and 500 boys and girls have had outstanding creative experiences.

Russell R. Benson

The Golden Touch to the Golden Years

Like the ancient Greeks who recorded their culture in art form on vases, the students of Western Hills High School have depicted their Golden Years in their 1958 Yearbook. The Golden Touch to the Golden Years is apparent in the joint creative efforts of a large annual staff of dedicated students striving for perfection. We are proud to have been chosen to print and bind the 1958 Western Hills Annual.

To improve the golden moments
of opportunity, catch the good
that is within our reach, is the great
art of life.
